Los Angeles Still Grows

Tigers, Beware

The Potato Chip Woman

500,000 Sunkist Dollars

By Arthur Brisbane

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Jan. 20—This city, looking west across the Pacific, back to the mountains and the effete East, is climbing up the mountains in all directions. Land that was once desert, worth 50 cents an acre, is now worth ten thousand and a great deal more. And this ceaselessly growing city is spreading north to San Francisco, south towards San Diego, and the "depression" has not checked it.

Douglas Fairbanks has gone to India, taking letters from the Duke of Sutherland to the Maharajah of Mysore, and letters from other dukes to other maharajahs, princes and potentates, plus a letter of credit, which is important. Fairbanks will shoot real tigers from the back of a real elephant in the Mysore territory. His cameraman goes along and his director to tell the tigers what is expected of them.

Feminine success here is not reserved to 18-year-old Hollywood women with golden hair and very large eyes. For instance, Mrs. Laura Scudder will interest you, if you are a woman about 40. Ill health compelled her husband to drop his law practice and his doctors said he must be interested in something. Mrs. Scudder immediately went into business, manufacturing and selling potato chips. Now she employs 40 trucks to deliver the chips and makes as much money as one of the trucks could haul.

Los Angeles, where such crowds pour over the sidewalks as you never saw even in New York or Chicago, is widening many city streets, getting ready for the future.

And the roads of approach from the east are widened and straightened. Fifty-seven dangerous curves have just been taken out of the Cajon Pass road, leading back to Victorville, Barstow and points east. The roads made less romantic but safer. They are also made sometimes much steeper than they were, because modern automobiles can climb anything.

Orange growers of the Sunkist organization here made a special fund of $500,000, intending to buy up the surplus crop, destroy it and prevent a break in the market. Orders second thought the 12,000 citrus farmers decided to add the $500,000 to this year's advertising appropriation and will spend more than two and a quarter million dollars in their 1931 campaign, a good example to other business men.

Between Saturday night's darkness and Sunday morning's daylight thousands of tons of rock fell from the top of Niagara Falls on the American side.

Thus Niagara's cliff travels gradually upstream, and in a few million years, cliff and cataract will have disappeared. But long before that happens men will have harnessed the tides, the earth's internal heat, the unlimited power, perhaps releasing also the inconceivable force locked up in the atom.

Those men of A. D. 10,000,000 will talk of days when men took their puny power from waterfalls, as we talk of early agriculturists that harnessed their old wives to the plow, while the young husband and wife held the plow handles, guiding a sharp stick hardened in the fire.

Dr. Blaisdell, expert in skin diseases, says we ought to stop shaking hands and adopt the ancient Roman method of salutation, grasping friend by the arm. Next to indiscriminate kissing, and unprotected sneezing, handshaking is the most efficient method of germ distribution. Dr. Blaisdell can prove to you that when President Hoover shook hands with 5000 people on New Year's Day, he collected at least 50,000,000 germs. The President washed them off carefully of course, but not everybody does that.

At Palm Springs, near here, another case of sandy desert blossoms into solid gold. Colonel Untermyer of New York sits on his veranda waiting for Prof. Einstein, who does not come because he has a bad cold. Prof. Einstein has been shaking hands ever since he landed in America.

In Japan, 50 are dying every day of the so-called "Spanish influenza" with which the war made us too familiar. The disease is virulently active in Spain, also.

In China many are dying of the influenza in Shensi province, and from hunger and cold also. We should be grateful for our blessings and not complain

Girl Student Killed in Skidding Accident

POLE FELLED BY AUTO KILLS SCHOOLGIRL

Gloria Wilson, 17, Crushed to Death Near South Huntington Ave. Home

Treacherous, icy streets today caused the death of one girl student and severe injuries to another, while in a third accident a car slid over a 20-foot embankment into a tree.

Miss Gloria Wilson, 17, a student at Mt. St. Joseph's Academy, Brighton, was crushed to death by a police spotlight pole as she waited to cross the street at Huntington ave. and Jamaicaway-Riverway, at the Boston-Brookline line.

A huge gasoline and oil truck, coming down the slight slope of Huntington ave. to the Riverway-Jamaicaway intersection, skidded on the glare ice and crashed into an iron pole, from which a spotlight, at night, is trained on the traffic officer.

CRUSHED BY POLE

The heavy pole snapped off at the base and toppled over on the unsuspecting girl, whose back was turned. She fell to the street under the crushing weight, as traffic in all directions skidded to a stop.

Special Officer Joseph F. Hart of Back Bay Station, on his way to report for duty, and James Stewart of 20 Trickner st., Roxbury, a city chauffeur, picked the girl up.

She was placed in Special Officer Hart's automobile and sent to Beth Israel Hospital, but was pronounced dead.

1000 JOBLESS RAID STORE

Oklahoma City, Jan. 27 (AP)—Nearly a thousand unemployed men raided a grocery store within three blocks of the City Hall here today and seized food.

A hundred police and scores of other city and county officers took charge of the situation and made wholesale arrests. The riot occurred after a delegation of men visited City Manager E. M. Fry at the City Hall and demanded that he furnish food for the unemployed. Fry promised to aid the men. The raid occurred a few minutes later.

A committee representing the "Army of Unemployed" recently visited Fry with demands that the city furnish sleeping quarters for men out of work by turning over vacant store buildings for their use.

They also demanded that jobs be furnished and declared they were not looking for charity.

2 BOSTON SHIPS RADIO FOR AID

Helpless with their rudders gone, two sister ships, the Brookline and the Newton of the Boston trawling fleet, radioed for aid today from the northern fringe of the Georges Banks, 200 miles east of Boston.

The Coast Guard cutter Ossipee is towing the Brookline to this port, while the destroyer Cummings is expected to bring in the Newton.

The first call came from the Brookline. Capt. Nat Johnson reported that a heavy sea had carried away the rudder and that his vessel was at the mercy of a heavy running sea, although in no immediate danger.

Coast Guard officials flashed the message to the Ossipee and Cummings, both on patrol duty off the coast. While they were speeding toward the trawler, the message from the Newton came.

Capt. Chris Christensen of the Newton reported the rudder bolt had crystallized, presumably due to electrolis by the action of the water, and had sheared off.

FIVE BANKMEN TAKE STAND IN GARRETT CASE

Two of the new accounts were in the name of Florence H. Garrett, wife of Oliver B. Garrett, ex-police raider, who is on trial with him and Miss Lillian V. Haley on charges of conspiracy to extort.

The other two were in the name of Florence H. Reddin.

Small deposits of but three was made before the withdrawals. Ones were $3037 under the name of Reddin in the National Rockland Bank; $963.80 under Garrett in the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, and $562, inclusive of interest, in the Merchants Cooperative Bank under the name of Garrett.

NEW DEFENSE MOVE

The other account under Reddin was in the Hingham Trust Co.

A defense move to "repel the inference" that Mrs. Garrett accumulated large sums through "illegitimate connections" with John P. Sullivan, claimed to be victim of the alleged conspiracy, resulted in witnesses being obliged to add totals of withdrawals and figure interest. Two were excused from the stand to do this work and a third did it while still on the stand.

Delphin F. Young, assistant, Co., who yesterday testified regarding treasurer of the Brookline Trust ing a Florence H. Garrett account which showed total deposits of $27,795.32, resumed the stand today and was excused in order that he might add the totals of withdrawals which were read at request of Daniel J. Gallagher, Mrs. Garrett's attorney.

MORE BANK MEN

This he did in the courtroom and the total of withdrawals was finally announced as $27,672.33.

The other witnesses were Albert R. Duffil, treasurer of the Mer-

How Majority of Board Favors Dry Law Change

Washington, Jan. 20—(INS)—A majority of President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission stands for a revision of the Eighteenth Amendment according to their views as expressed in the prohibition report submitted to President Hoover and transmitted to Congress today.

Here is how they stand:

George W. Wickersham, chairman, former attorney general in Taft administration: Favors further trial and suggests constitutional convention for impartial consideration of prohibition.

Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard law school: For revision to allow local option.

Paul J. McCormick, U. S. district judge, Los Angeles: Suggests changes in enforcement law at this session and further effort at enforcement under new regulations.

Monte M. Lemann, professor of law, Tulane University, New Orleans: For repeal.

W. I. Grubb, U. S. district judge, Alabama: Further trial.

Henry W. Anderson, Virginia, lawyer: For revision and submits plan giving Congress power "to regulate or prohibit" manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

Hoover Against Board Plan to Change Law

Washington, Jan. 20 (INS)—President Hoover does not approve the Wickersham prohibition report in its entirety, although he considers it a valuable contribution to the whole field of prohibition discussion.

Specifically, Mr. Hoover approves the recommendation of a majority of the commission against the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but he "sees serious objections" to the alternative amendment which the commission proposed, which would have the effect of throwing the whole problem of liquor control back into the hands of Congress.

AMENDMENT OFFERED

The President expressed his attitude in a comparatively brief letter to Congress today, accompanying the report. It was a carefully polished message, and was evolved only after Mr. Hoover had spent several hours going over the language of the exit with his cabinet. It is understood that the cabinet advisers introduced some changes in the original letter which Mr. Hoover drafted.

The President declared, however, that he was "in unity with the spirit of the report," although he made the specific reservation with regard to the proposed substitute for the 18th amendment.

Within a few minutes after the report was laid before Congress, Senator Blaine (R.), Wisconsin, introduced a constitutional amendment designed to carry out, in part, the recommendation of the commission for revising the 18th Amendment.

Blaine took the text of the amendment proposed in the commission's conclusions, and erased three words "or to prohibit," mak-

American Beats Rivals by an Hour in Rail Wreck

At 9:51 a. m. yesterday the Colonial Express crashed into the Blackstone local at Readville. Exactly 24 minutes later the presses of the Boston American were whirling out the first news of the accident.

Not until an hour and five minutes after the Boston American carried the news did any other Boston paper have an account of the accident.

In a quick succession of editions, the Boston American followed up this news beat. At 10:25 a "wreck extra" carried a detailed account and description of the crash and the first names of the injured.

At 12:30 the first graphic pictures of the wreck appeared in the Boston American, and in its succeeding editions the Boston American was the only paper to carry a complete list of names of the injured.

If you want the news first, if you want the news accurate, read it in the Boston American.

MAJORITY IS AGREED ON FAILURE TO ENFORCE

Wickersham Group Is 2 for Repeal, 4 for Modification, 2 for Referendum, 3 for Status Quo

The complete summary of the report of the Wickersham Commission on the Eighteenth Amendment submitted to President Hoover is printed on page 10.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Jan. 20—A badly divided Wickersham Commission rendered its long-awaited report on prohibition today after 18 months of laborious investigation, and from it both the wets and the drys can extract some measure of comfort. Probably it will please neither.

The commission found that prohibition was a noble undertaking, but it is not being adequately enforced, that it never has been adequately enforced, and that there is grave doubt whether it ever can be adequately enforced.

It recommended against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment—yet 6 of the 11 members of the commission, a majority, revealed themselves individually to be in favor of either outright repeal or revision of the amendment.

FOR SWEDISH PLAN

It recommended against any scheme of having either the federal government or the individual states "go in the liquor business" as has been done in Canada—yet the same majority individually recommended favorable consideration of a modified Swedish plan of liquor control which would have the national and state governments supervise and regulate the sale of liquor on the card system.

It recommended greater appropriations, more federal agents and more equipment with which to try to enforce the existing setup which a majority of the members individually consider unenforceable.

These are only a few of the many curious anomalies contained in the report of nearly 100,000 words, which took a year and a half and the expenditure of half a million dollars to complete.

President Hoover transmitted the bulky document to Congress on May with a brief covering letter. A somewhat bewildered but very much interested Congress received it. Nothing, of course, will be done with it immediately.

THE MAIN FEATURES

Other principal features of the report were:

1—THE COMMISSION opposed all proposals to modify the 18th instead law to permit beers and light wines on the ground such action would be ineffectual in reaching the root of the problem.

2—THE COMMISSION opposed the return of the saloon in any form.

3—IT RECOMMENDED that all restrictions upon the issuance of prescriptions by physicians be forthwith abolished.

4—IT HIT the rapidly growing graze concentrate business by recommending that the anomalous provisions of Section 29 of the Volstead Act be removed, in order to put wine-making and beer-drinking in the home on the same basis. Under the present interpretation of the law it is legal to make wine in the home, but illegal to make beer.

5—THREE MEMBERS of the commission, Judge William S. Kenyon, Judge Paul J. McCormick and Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard Law School, suggested the desirability of submitting the repeal of the amendment to state constitutional conventions elected to consider the subject.

6—TWO MEMBERS of the commission, Newton D. Baker, ex-Secretary of War, and Monte H. Lemann, law professor at Tulane University, recommended outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

7—FOUR MEMBERS of the commission, Henry W. Anderson, Virginia lawyer; Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe College, the only woman member; Frank J. Loesch, Chicago lawyer, and Dean Pound of Harvard, proposed revision of the amendment so as to throw the whole question back upon Congress for determination.

8—FIVE MEMBERS of the commission, Judges William I. Grubb of Alabama, Kenyon, McIntosh, McCormick and Chairman Wickersham, recommended "further trial" of the existing prohibition setup under the reforms and improvements instituted during the past three years with the proviso that if material improvement is not forthcoming after "a fair trial" then attention be given to revision of the amendment.

9—ALL OF the members were of the opinion that the amendment should be repealed or modified rather than to permit it to sink into a state of nullification such as has happened in the case of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments.

10—ALL WERE AGREED, too that prohibition cannot be enforced without the active cooperation of the states, and without a great deal more public support than has hitherto been given to it.

The commission went so far as to propose a sample amendment and video it becomes advisable to knock out the existing Eighteenth Amendment.

PROPOSED REVISION

"All the commission agreed," said the report, "that if the amendment is revised it should be made read substantially as follows:

"SECTION 1—The Congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes."

The practical effect of such a substitute would be to throw the whole question back into the direct control of Congress. Thus if a dry Congress elected to keep the country dry it could do so by legislative enactment. Conversely, if a wet Congress decided to permit the sale of liquor under strict Government supervision and regulation it could also do so by mere legislative enactment.

The principal advantage to this scheme, as stressed by its indorsers, would be to remove a police statute from the Constitution, and afford a flexibility of control of the liquor question that would always reflect public opinion.

As pointed out by Colonel Anderson:

"Under the proposed amendment Congress would continue the present system of absolute national prohibition, or (2) it could permit the matter in whole or in part to the states, or (3) to adopt any system of effective control. Since greater flexibility is one of the outstanding needs of the present system, this modification should be made even if the policy of absolute national prohibition is to be continued."

The commission's report consisted of 12 parts—the main body which presented the recommendations and an appalling picture of present day conditions, which was signed by 10 of the 11 members (all with reservations) and then 11 individual statements reflecting the views of the various members.

REPORTS VARY WIDELY

The only member who refrained from signing the report was Monte H. Lehmann, the Tulane University Constitutional law professor, known to be an advocate of repeal. An inquiry at commission headquarters as to who Prof. Lemann had withheld his signature brought only the tart rejoinder, "you had better ask Prof. Lemann."

The individual statements varied greatly in length and substance. They ranged all the way from Ada L. Comstock's 150 words stating she favored "an immediate attempt" to change the constitution to Judge Kenyon's 15,000 words extolling the merits of national prohibition, and explaining why he favored "a further trial" before resorting to attempts to change the law.

Dealing with the subject of prohibition in its broadest sense, the commission found it has in many respects been of enormous benefit to the country. Economically and socially the country has prospered. There has been increased production, industrially, savings accounts have increased materially, and demands upon charitable agencies have been reduced under prohibition. These benefits, the commission said, should be preserved.

POINT CRIME INCREASE

But there is another side of the picture to which the commission devoted page after page of its report, telling of the enormous increase in crime, bribery and corruption of public officers, of congested courts, of overflowing prisons, of indiscriminate killings by federal agents, of lawless practices by police and enforcement agents, of disrespect for all law that has followed disrespect and violation of the prohibition law.

Tracing the history of the prohibition enactment, the commission found it was thrust upon the country during wartime without proper consideration of whether the country was yet ready for so radical an experiment.

"The proponents of the law," the report said, "paid no heed to the admonition that 'no law can be effectively enforced except with the assistance and cooperation of the law-abiding element.'

On the contrary, "The passage of the act and its enforcement were urged with a spirit of intolerant zeal that awakened an equally intolerant opposition and the difficulties now being experienced in rallying public sentiment in support of the Eighteenth Amendment result largely from that spirit of intolerance."

GOT BAD START

The whole experiment, the commission agreed, got off to a bad start. The Government was unprepared for so gigantic a task, many of the earlier agents were venal, corrupt and inefficient.

More than 1800 agents have been discharged in the last 10 years "for cause," exclusive of the coast guard, customs service and other cooperating agencies. "For cause" means bribery, extortion theft, violation of the law itself, conspiracy, forgery, perjury and other crimes.

As to observance of the law, the commission found there isn't a great deal and never has been.

"There is a mass of evidence before us," the report said, "as to general prevalence of drinking in homes, in clubs, in hotels, of drinking parties given and attended by persons of high standing and respectability . . ."

RICH IGNORE LAW

"It is evident that, taking the country as a whole, people of wealth, business men and professional men, and their families, and perhaps, the higher paid working men and their families, and perhaps in large measure in quite frank disregard of the national prohibitions act. . ."

The principal sources of illicit liquor were found to be smuggled imports, diversion of industrial alcohol, and illicit distilling and brewing.

As for home-brew, the extent of this can only be guessed at, the commission said. It frankly admitted that it is impossible to enforce the law with relation to home-brewing.

"Necessity seems to compel the virtual abandonment of reports for effective enforcement at this point," the report says, "but it must be recognized that this is done at the price of nullification to that extent. Law here bows to actualities."

Enormous liquor rings have sprung up, the commission pointed out, which are country-wide in their scope and heavily financed.

PUBLIC MUST FAVOR.

Because of the many mistakes and the crooks that infested the prohibition service during its first seven years, the commission said, courts and judges and juries "grew to distrust the prohibition forces."

The fact that the amendment was proposed and ratified "during a great war" was in itself a great handicap, it was stated, because every war has been followed by a period of corruption in government.

"We expect legislation to conform to public opinion, not public opinion to yield to legislation. Whether public opinion on a given subject is right or wrong is not a question which, according to American ideas, may be [illegible] by the words, 'Be it enacted, . . .' is therefore a serious impairment of the legal order to have a national law upon the books theoretically governing the whole land which public opinion in many important centers will not enforce. . . . The injury to our legal and political institutions must be weighed against the gains achieved by national prohibition."

CLARK DRY LAW RULING BACKED BY BRIEF

Oral Arguments on Decision to Be Made in the Supreme Court Tomorrow

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Counsel supporting the decision of Judge Clark, of New Jersey, holding the prohibition amendment invalid, today filed in the Supreme Court an exhaustive brief to be used tomorrow in presenting their oral argument.

The brief contended Congress does not have discretion in submitting proposed constitutional amendments to either State Legislatures or conventions for ratification but in controlled in deciding whether legislatures or conventions must ratify by the nature of the amendment.

Insisting that the people alone could grant the power conferred upon the Federal Government by the eighteenth amendment, Counsel asserted it should have been submitted to State conventions for ratification, instead of to State Legislatures.

Interpreting the records of the convention adopting the constitution, counsel reached the conclusion that it was never intended "to make legislatures competent to grant to the United States new and direct powers of government over the people or their rights, or to enable Congress to choose the legislatures as agents for that purpose."

Summing up, the brief said:

"As the eighteenth amendment has never been adopted by the people to whom alone was reserved the power to grant any such additional powers over themselves or their rights to the National Government, Congress had no power to enact or enforce the statutory provisions under which this endictment (of William H. Sprague and William J. Howey for transporting and possessing beer) is framed. The provisions of the (Volstead) act on which the indictment is predicted are therefore unconstitutional."

WHEAT RELIEF PLAN APPROVED IN THE SENATE

20,000,000 Bushels Bought by Farm Board to Be Used Under the Plan

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Senate agricultural committee today approved a bill to authorize the federal farm board to devote 20,000,000 bushels of wheat purchased by its subsidiaries for relief purposes.

The bill, a modification of a measure introduced by Senator Capper, Rep., Kas., would authorize President Hoover to designate the agency which would distribute the wheat.

RELIEF MEASURE

Senator Caraway, Dem., Ark., a member of the committee, described the bill as a direct appropriation of $15,000,000 for relief purposes.

The original Capper bill provided for using 40,000,000 bushels of the farm board's wheat, but the committee modified it at the suggestion of government agencies.

TURNED INTO FLOUR

The bill provides that the agency to which the wheat is given shall take care of milling it into flour for distribution to those suffering from hunger.

More than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are now held by subsidiaries of the farm board.

Senator Watson, Republican leader, said the commission's report would be referred to the Judiciary Committee.

WANTS CONGRESS PROBE

Chairman Norris of the Judiciary Committee has pending a resolution for a Senate inquiry into prohibition enforcement. It was not brought out to a vote last session pending completion of the commission's inquiry.

Senator Norris declined any comment today on the commission's report pending a study of it. Judge William S. Kenyon, a former Republican Senator from Iowa, asserted in his individual report that "nothing but a congressional investigation could give to the public the whole story" of "the cause of corruption" to which he referred.

Closely attentive members in both Houses listened to the reading of President Hoover's message, and when the clerk reached that section where the President agreed with the commission that the Eighteenth Amendment should not be repealed, there was spontaneous applause from the Republican side of the House.

At the conclusion, the Republican side of the House rose and applauded. Two Democrats joined with them. The other Democrats remained seated and took no part in the demonstration.

The Senate received the message in stony silence. There was no handclapping whatever.

President Hoover's message to Congress follows:

"The commission considered that the conditions of enforcement of the prohibition laws in the country as a whole are unsatisfactory, but it reports that the federal participation in enforcement has shown continued improvement since and as a consequence of the act of Congress of 1927 placing prohibition officers under civil service, and the act of 1930 transferring prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the department of justice, and it outlined further possible improvement.

STATE AID NEEDED

"It calls attention to the urgency of obedience to law by our citizens and to the imperative necessity for greater assumption and performance by state and local governments of their share of responsibility under the 'concurrent enforcement' provision of the constitution if enforcement is to be made.

"It recommends that further and more effective effort be made to enforce the laws. It makes recommendations as to federal administrative needs and certain secondary legislation for further increase of personnel, new classification of offenses, relief of the courts and amendments to the national prohibition act clarifying the law and eliminating irritation which arise under it.

"Some of these recommendations have been enacted by the Congress or are already in course of legislation. I commend these suggestions to the attention of the Congress at an appropriate time.

"The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal or the 18th Amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view. I am in unity with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic and political evils of this traffic, to preserve the gains which have been made, and to diminish the abuses which exist, at the same time facing with an open mind the difficulties which have arisen under this experiment.

IS AGAINST CHANGE

"I do, however, see serious objections to, and therefore must not be understood as recommending, the commission's proposed revision of the Eighteenth Amendment which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful.

"My own duty and that of all executive officials is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal without equivocation or reservation."

"The report is the result of a thorough and comprehensive study of the situation by a representative and authoritative group. It clearly recognizes the gains which have been made and is to the effect that these gains shall be preserved.

"There are necessarily differences in views among its members. It is a temperate and judicial presentation, designed to stimulate the clarification of public mind and the advancement of public thought."

PINCHOT OPENS WAR ON CONTROL OF BIG POWER INTERESTS

SEEKS TO END MENACE OF COMBINES

Governor of Penn. Declares "Stranglehold" of Trust Is Crushing Public

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 20 (US)—Gifford Pinchot today declared war to the hilt on public utilities control of the State of Pennsylvania and the nation.

In unequivocal terms he declared in his inaugural address as governor of Pennsylvania his policy:

"To break the stranglehold of the electric, gas, water, trolley, bus, and other public utilities on the cost of living and the margin for happiness.

"To abolish the public service commission. It is the catspaw of the corporations, unfaithful to the people, and worse than useless.

"To replace it with a fair rate board elected (like our courts) by the people.

FAIR RATE BOARD

"To have the fair rate board elected by districts, so that every part of the state will be represented.

"To review and reduce, through the fair rate board, every unjust rate now charged by any electric, gas, water, trolley, bus, or other public utility under its authority.

"To revise the public service law so as to make the fair rate board the defender of the people against high rates and poor service."

At the very outset of his address Governor Pinchot gave voice to a stinging indictment of corporation control of government. By this, he declared, is whether government by the people shall survive.

FIGHTS FOR PUBLIC

He said:

"Two forces are struggling for control of the governments of Pennsylvania and of the United States.

"One fights in the open, and has done so since the birth of this Republic. It represents the theory of government as set forth in the Declaration of Independence and established upon this continent by the sacrifices of our forefathers.

"Its motives and methods are disclosed only when attacks upon it drive them into the open. Its central purpose is to control the Government and to prevent it from protecting the people against manifold abuses which take unjustly from the breadwinners many hundreds if not thousands of millions of dollars each year.

ALL STATES IN GRIP

"In the great future which opens before us our people will either remain masters of their own destiny or they will once more become subjects of that type of Government whose destruction was the object of the French Revolution in Europe, and the American Revolution on this continent."

Attacking directly public utilities domination in Pennsylania, Gov. Pinchot said:

"Here in Pennsylvania a carefully planned, elaborately financed, and powerfully directed attack upon the rule of the people under the law has made substantial progress. It aims to substitute government by the public utilities for government by the people. It is not confined to Pennsylvania. Not a single state in the Union is free from a similar attempt.

"Back of the public utilities in their attack on our American form of government is the whole fabric of political corruption; the underworld, the protected racketeer, and criminals of high and low degree."

Daisy Denies Parts of Her Lively 'Confession'

Los Angeles, Jan. 20 (INS)—Cross-examination of Miss Daisy De Voe, former secretary and "pal" of Clara Bow, is to be continued today at her trial before Superior Judge W. C. Doran on a charge of embezzling $15,200 from the titian-haired "It" girl of the films.

The blonde Miss De Voe's inquisitor is to be Prosecutor David Clark, under whose grilling the defendant momentarily lost yesterday the composure that has marked her demeanor since the opening of the trial. The cause of Daisy's break was a barrage of questions about how much of Miss Bow's money she had given to her mother, Mrs. Ida De Voe.

Yesterday's session lost much of its potential drama at its outset when Judge Doran, by an order ruling out "mud slinging," prevented Daisy from carrying out a threat to "tell all" and continue a narrative she began last Friday about Miss Bow's life at home.

Testimony regarding the checks and the love letters which Miss Bow received from her three last "boy friends" came from Miss De Voe as she faced a rigorous cross-examination on the witness stand at the hands of Deputy Dist. Atty. Dave Clark.

DENIES CONFESSION

She flatly denied large portions of the asserted confession obtained from her at the time she was questioned by district attorney's investigators after the now famous "break" with the actress, whom she served as secretary and companion.

These love letters and telegrams to Miss Bow from Harry Richman, Dr. Earl Pierson and lastly, Rex Bell, didn't get much consideration in the final splitup between the flame-haired actress and her secretary, the testimony developed.

In fact, the missives were carried about in rather haphazard fashion.

When she left Miss Bow's home the blonde ex-secretary said, she took care to remove with her the cancelled checks and stubs and the private papers belonging to Miss Bow.

She explained that she carried them along with her simply to prevent them from falling into alien hands.

SWEETHEART IN COURT

But the letters and telegrams from the admirers received no such attention. They were simply thrown together and wrapped up in an old newspaper. Later they found their way to Alfred Mathes, who is Daisy's old sweetheart.

Mathes was in court yesterday for the first time, sitting by Rex Bell, Clara's latest "boy friend," an whose suggestion it was that Miss De Voe was ousting as secretary and confidante of the actress. However, Rex and Alfred, though former pals, exchanged not a word during the course of the day.

She listed jewelry, insurance papers, a film contract, and, finally, the letters, telegrams, cancelled checks and stubs.

"I put all of the letters and telegrams in the black suitcase" she said, "and took everything to the home of my sister."

"And what did you do with the letters and telegrams?" inquired Clark.

"Oh, I simply wrapped them up in an old newspaper and put that in the car with the suitcase."

"Then what became of them?"

"Well, I finally gave them to Mr. Mathes after I kept them at my sister's home for several days."

At one time Clark asked the defendant just what else was in the safety deposit box in which the private papers of Clara had been placed.

Her answer was:

"There were also Robert Bow's checks. She kept them to hold over his head."

Robert Bow is Clara's father.

CONFESSION RE-READ

Judge Doran interrupted, ordering the statement regarding Robert Bow to be stricken from the records.

After Clark concluded questioning her regarding the statements he turned to the testimony given by Miss De Voe before the grand jury.

She admitted that she had been asked the various questions on the jury transcript and likewise admitted that she had refused to answer many of those interrogations on the ground that to do so might incriminate her.

Lastly, she flatly denied saying to the grand jury that she had sought the $125,000 from Clara as the price of her silence.

EUROPEAN WAR ALLIANCES ARE SCORED

Henderson Tells Council They Are All Subject to the League Covenant

Geneva, Jan. 20 (AP)—Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary and chairman of the Council of the League of Nations, today denounced the system of military alliances, which has prevailed in Europe, in an address to the council.

He announced his belief that any alliance between members of the league would have to be subject to the covenant of the league.

"On behalf of my Government," de declared, "I say without hesitation that I know of no alliance and can know of no alliance except that of the covenant itself."

Of several nations called to mind by the utterance France perhaps has the most extensive system of military alliances, having grouped herself with Belgium, Poland, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania in defensive military agreements.

COVENANT IS SUPREME.

"Some people say that the drift has already begun toward the old system of alliances for warlike ends, and that these alliances are undermining the authority of the covenant and the league," Mr. Henderson asserted.

"This is dangerous talk, for in my opinion no alliance can be made that is not subject to the covenant and the authority of the covenant is supreme. No government, however, powerful, can either desire or venture to flout the league obligations it has undertaken."

SECURITY ESSENTIAL.

"It is no use to talk disarmament," he said, "until the parity of security is nearer realization."

Remo Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, in a short address, said security is an essential factor in determining the degree of disarmament, but is not in the view of the Italian government an essential preliminary.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, agreed with Henderson as to the necessity for disarmament if the menace of war is to be escaped.

He praised the work of the disarmament commission, saying: "We have dealt with every difficulty made some progress toward peace."

M. Briand said he regarded this projected first disarmament conference merely as a phase to be followed by others. He foresaw the coming conference as resulting not only in the limitation of arms, but in appreciable reduction.

JAPAN TO CO-OPERATE

He denied that recent years had seen increases in national armaments, asserting that really there had been a decrease by many nations and he listed his own government as one who had cut her armament. He spoke of demands of the Soviet Union for total disarmament at this time as quite visionary.

Mr. Yoshizawa, Japanese member of the Council, expressed his opinion regarding the forthcoming conference and promised the co-operation of his Government in getting some measure of reduction of armament.

Garcia Gets One More Massage

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Mr. Wickersham should get it back tomorrow.

But 100,000 words isn't a bad start.

After Congress gets the words it will be set to music. Then the doleful scenario will be switched to Hollywood, where the continuity writers can take a whack at it.

By the time it gets back it will be something entirely different. It will be carried as a rider on the harbor and garage bill and will be an amendment compelling despots divers to wrap their luches in waterproof paper.

Bootleggers have nothing to fear from this 20-month-old report.

INDIA LEADERS FLAY ROUND TABLE PACT

Bombay, Jan. 20 (AP)—Widespread condemnation was heard in Indian Nationalist quarters today of the schems of Federal India evolved at the London round table conference and the British government's proffer of an eventual qualified dominion status.

The Bombay Chronicle, principal Nationalist organ, commenting today upon the statement of British policy by Prime Minister MacDonald in closing the conference yesterday, said:

"As far as one can see the Labor government intends to impose upon this country a system of camouflaged self-government in which the safeguards for Britain are the principal elements and the bestowal of genuine responsibility upon the Indian people a minor item.

SPEECH IS "BARREN"

"The will of the Legislature will count for nothing when some important items of national interest such as finance defense and foreign relations are concerned. Would Canada or South Africa have accepted such 'dominion' constitution?"

Shankarlal Bankar, one of Mahatma Gandhi's right-hand men, said:

"If the Premier had nothing more to offer the Indian people at this juncture than such a feeble, empty speech it would have been far better if he had said nothing at all because the people of India would then have remained calm, patiently awaiting the outcome of the present negotiations and discussions.

"His speech, barren as it is of any concrete pledge of genuine self-government, will fill the masses with disappointment and disgust and lead only to further unrest."

CHALLENGE TO INDIA

Under the heading "the fight must go on" the Bombay Free Press Journal, representing the extremist wing of the Nationalists, said:

"Mr. MacDonald proposes that before swaraj (self government) is agreed to India must sign away all her rights to shape her future economic, fiscal, financial, defense and foreign policies.

"Should India dare to refuse to sign away her rights England is convinced that it is for the good of India for her to discharge her self imposed Christianistic mission as trustee for the teeming millions of India."

LLOYD GEORGE LAUDS HEARST NEWSPAPERS

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Universal Service Special Cable

London, Jan. 20—David Lloyd George is in a fighting mood because of the alleged garbling in the London Times of a quotation from his articles about the Anglo-American debt settlement written for the Hearst newspapers in 1923.

Yesterday, the fiery Liberal leader and former prime minister, in an open letter to the conservative Times, after a week of long controversy, states:

"You always refer with the curled lip of assumed superiority to the Hearst press, edited as it is by Mr. Hearst, one of the most brilliant publicists in the world. I challenge you to produce from the Hearst newspapers such a gross example of journalistic dishonesty as I have now exposed."

HIS CHARGES

Lloyd George charged the Times categorically:

1.—With cutting out a paragraph of his first article about the debt settlement for the Hearst newspapers, in which he stated expliettly that the article was written while he was at sea, and that he had only a brief wireless report of the terms of Stanley Baldwin's settlement to guide him. Therefore, "I suspend judgment until I can read the details," Lloyd George declares the paragraph stated.

2.—With "completely suppressing all reference to my second article for the Hearst press, written immediately after I had had the opportunity of perusing the terms. In this article I pendemned the terms."

The former prime minister then continues his attack:

"After I had called your attention to these perversions of the truth, instead of apologizing for your oversight, you indulge in spite, silly sneers at my efforts to earn a living from journalism. Not even inveterate personal rancor, of which you have given innumerable proofs, can justify such methods."

STARTED WEEK AGO

The controversy began a week ago with Lloyd George's sharp criticism of Baldwin, Conservative leader, in the Liberal Nineteenth Century and After, of an article on his alleged bad bargain in the debt funding. Upon this the Times unearthed Lloyd George's first article for the Hearst newspapers, citing it as proof that the Liberal leader had supported Baldwin in the 1923 settlement.

HEARING DENIED INSTRUCTOR IN BROOKLINE

John T. Connor, recently dismissed as instructor of physical education at the Brookline schools, was denied a public hearing by a vote of five to four at a special meeting of the Brookline school committee last night.

The deciding vote was cast by Rev. Abbot Peterson, chairman. Dr. Thomas P. Kendrick of the committee told of Connor's qualifications to instruct in physical education, and said that he had more credits in this respect than Thomas H. Hines, director of physical education, who asked that Connor not be reappointed.

The subject was brought before the school committee on a petition from the American Legion post, signed by James H. Henderson, commander. The Rev. Crawford O. Smith said that it was unfair to dismiss Connor without a hearing.

William T. Reid, ex-Harvard football coach, led the attack against Connor, arguing that the superintendent of the Brookline schools, the headmaster and the chairman of the school committee must have acted judiciously in making their decision against Connor.

Members of the school committee were told that the reappointment was not made because of Connor's "unfitness."

"A COUGH WOULD KILL MY PROGRAM"

Harriet Lee

"I GET colds, of course," says Miss Lee, popular radio contralto, "but I have to go on the air just the same. A cough would kill my program."

That's why, like many other radio artists, she has learned to rely on Pertussin. It's quick—and it's safe and pleasant to take. For Pertussin is made from a medicinal herb called thyme and is entirely free from narcotics and injurious, habit-forming drugs.

Broadcasting studios use Pertussin because it relieves coughs and eases the throat almost instantly. Doctors have prescribed it for over twenty-five years—especially for children.

GARRETT CASH IS FIGURED IN COURT

chants Cooperative Bank, who was excused so that he might compute the interest of Mrs. Garrett's monthly $10 deposits; Frank W. Fuller, of the National Rockland Bank, who did his figuring on the stand; Thomas Milligan, of the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, and Seth Sprague of the Hingham Trust Company.

Milligan caused one of the few laughs at the trial, when, after answering a few questions and listening to Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle read from the bank records, he was excused without cross-examination.

"And I waiter 13 days just for this," he remarked as he gathered up his belongings.

Judge Patrick J. Keating joined in the smiles.

"I'm not to blame, and as one banker to another let me say thanks," said Gallagher, shaking hands with him.

CHECKS ASKED FOR

Mrs. Garrett, opening the Boston Five Cents Savings account in March, 1924, gave her age as 42 when checking from the records. There were no withdrawals from this account.

During the morning Doyle asked, Herbert F. Callahan, Garrett's lawyer, if he had the cancelled checks on the Brookline account, and Callahan replied that he did not have them.

After battling for two days against admission of certain bank records, Gallagher this morning moved to "repel the inference" by demanding that every dollar to the exact amount, including interest, be shown.

Insisting that Duffil be required to give the interest on Mrs. Garrett's $10 monthly deposits in the Merchants Co-operative Bank, he said:

WANTS EXACT AMOUNT

"The gist of the testimony so far tends to show that this man Garrett and his wife were rolling in wealth. Now, my purpose is to show that she never had anything like that sum at any one time, in order to repel these things which the jury may infer from this testimony.

"It would appear that was woman had accumulated a huge fund through illegitimate connections with this man Sullivan. I want to repel that inference by showing the most exact amount that we can find within the time limit set for this evidence.

Judge Keating said he did not wish to hinder him, but it appeared that the sum of interest would be so comparatively small that it would not be worth while "but if you figure that it is important I will ask the district attorney to call some other witness so that we can go on with the trial."

MORE DEPOSIT SLIPS

"Now, your honor, I will follow any suggestions you may make," said Gallagher. "I would not for the moment press the question if you do not desire me to, but in this case, where the public and the jury has been led to believe that these two people stole——"

He was interrupted at this point by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle.

"I object. I object," cried the prosecutor.

"Wait a minute," said Judge Keating. He then instructed Duffil to get down from the stand and compute the interest. Young was already at work figuring his total.

Fuller, treasurer of the National Rockland Bank, was the next witness. Deposit slips of an account in the name of Florence H. Reddin were placed in evidence.

Doyle introduced one deposit slip, dated Dec. 10, 1924, on which the name "D. J. Mulrenin" had been scratched out and replaced by the name of Florence M. Reddin, he said. Another deposit slip, dated eight days later, had "D. J. Mul——" scratched out on it, the prosecutor declared.

LAWYERS IN TILT

Reading from a ledger card of the account, Doyle read $1225 as a deposit.

"That's not a deposit. Isn't that a balance?" Gallagher interrupted.

During cross-examination by Gallagher, it was shown that the total of the National Rockland account was $3027, that it was opened in November, 1926, with a deposit of $1225, and that when it was closed out the following February the last withdrawal was less than $100.

There was a possibility that the government would conclude its case late today or tomorrow. Wilbur F. Turner, handwriting expert, is expected to be a closing witness.

Miss Hatch, it is believed, will take the stand in her own defense, although no announcement to that effect has been made. Whether the former police raider and his wife will also go on the stand is moot.

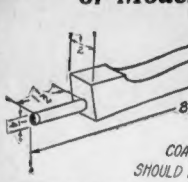
Builders Start on Wheels of Model Coach



COACH REAR AXLE SHOULD LOOK LIKE THIS

With the wheels of the model Napoleonic coach well under way, Boston Evening American Chapter members of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild will soon be in need of the axles on which the wheels will turn, and this week's instructions take up the rear axle in detail. The preparation of this part will be less exacting than that for either wheels or hubs. It is no less important, however, for upon the correct size of the hubs depends true-running of the wheels, free from looseness or wobble. Note particularly the correction in dimension, given in Paragraph 59.

DUPLICATE AT SHOW

With the publication of Lesson No. 8, today a complete sequence of lessons, including No. 10, have been published. Lesson No. 11 will be published next week.

A duplicate of the model coach is on exhibition at the Boston Auto Show running all the week at Mechanics Building.

Many will want to follow the suggestion of one manual training teacher in whose classes numerous Guild members are building model coaches. "Each week," this teacher writes, "I cut out the newspaper article and paste it on a piece of heavy cardboard. Then I cut out the part or parts of the Guild drawings that go with the operations referred to in the article, and paste them beside the newspaper clipping. I find that this simplifies the drawings, making them easier for the boys to follow."

STILL TIME TO ENROLL

Local boys who have not yet joined the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild still have ample time to enroll. It is necessary only to see any General Motors car dealer and fill out one of the enrollment blanks which all these dealers have on hand. The new member will then be sent the handsome bronze Guild button, membership card signed by Dan Beard, full set of color prints, plans and specifications for coach-building, and the booklet of rules. He is also automatically made a member of the Boston Evening American Chapter of the Guild, and as such gets the benefit of the special instructions in these columns.

Today's set of directions follows:

Rear Axle.

For our Guild lesson this week, let us consider the rear axle. This will not be difficult to make since the entire axle can be made out of one piece of wood. Some close grained hard wood is the best to use, such as maple, birch, walnut or mahogany. If you do not have access to wood of this nature, use whatever you have at hand. Models will not be judged on materials used but on the craftsmanship involved. If soft wood is used for the axle, such as pine, cypress, box, bass or white wood, select a piece with straight grain, running lengthwise of the axle stock.

59—Dress a piece of wood to the size of axle thickness, width and length. In this case this would be ¾"x¾"x4¾". (Note—Guild drawing gives axle length 8-½". Correct this to read 4¾".)

60—Make a cardboard pattern of the entire axle including the shafts. The pattern is easily made by tracing the shape on cardboard with carbon paper from your Guild drawing.

65—Carefully shape the axle shafts to a round surface ½" in diameter. In doing this it will be well to drill a ½" hole in a scrap piece of wood. Keep fitting the shafts to this diameter as you work them down to shape.

66—Since the holes in hubs are ½" in diameter the shafts should be sanded slightly under ½" so as to allow wheels to turn easily on them. Do not make the shaft too small or the wheels will not run true.

"KONJOLA SURE REAL MEDICINE"

Young Lady Declares That Modern Compound Made Her Feel Like New Person

Seven million bottles used in two years! A medicine must have merit to make a record like that. Konjola does have merit—that is why it is today a household name in tens of thousands of American homes.

MISS LILLIAN A. HALL

Konjola is a medicine for the aged or the infant. Its 32 ingredients, 22 the juices of roots and herbs, go right to the very source and root of ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Cleansing and stimulating as it goes, Konjola battles the very causes of the ailments it is designed to relieve. Just read what Miss Lillian A. Hall, 75 Roger Williams avenue, Providence, says about this new and different medicine. Then see the Konjola Man at the Epstein drug store, 2-4 Scollay Square, Boston, and learn of hundreds of cases just like that of Miss Hall, who said to the Konjola Man:

"I suffered most of my life with constipation, and I was run down in every way. I was worried, too, for though I took cathartics every day the relief was temporary and inadequate. I had terrific headaches and every morning I got up tired and worn out. I decided to give Konjola a real trial, for I had heard so much about it. Well, in three weeks Konjola proved itself in my case. My bowels move normally and I feel like a different person now that my system is cleansed of poisons and impurities. Konjola is sure a real medicine."

See it gives victory after victory when Konjola is given a chance to prove why it is the best known medicine in America.

The Konjola Man is at Epstein's—Scollay Sq. (Epstein Drug Co.), Boston, where daily he is meeting those who come to find out about Konjola and its powers.

PURNELL GOLD IS SOUGHT

St. Joseph, Mich., Jan. 20 (AP)—The law has been invoked in a treasure hunt which has for its prize between $600,000 and $700,000—hidden riches of the late "King" Benjamin Purnell of the House of David Colony.

H. T. Dewhirst, counsel for the colony during the life of "King" Ben, and now its leader, filed suit for a writ which would compel Mrs. Ada Ross Schneider, for 25 years auditor and secretary of the colony, to disclose the hiding place of the money.

Mrs. Schneider's attorney, George R. Bookwalter, said she had told him the secret wealth is in $1'00 bills, locked in vaults whose location was revealed only to her and to a few other women in the colony.

Mrs. Schneider has left the colony and is preparing to bring suit to recover for her services. Attorney Bookwalter said the colony had offered to settle with her for $50000. Now, however, Judge Dewhirst asks a complete accounting and directions for finding the hidden wealth.

Women Safer Auto Drivers Than Men

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—Until some one develops a yard stick to measure driving ability, Harold G. Hoffman said New Jersey statistics have failed to prove the theory, though there are 710,000 men drivers as compared with 204,500 women. He said the percentage of men in accidents in 1930 was 4.5, compared with one per cent for women.

SOVIET CALLS FISH REPORT 'INSOLENT'

Moscow, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Soviet press today turned shafts of ridicule against the American congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., in long editorials denouncing his recent report to the Congress of the United states on his investigation of Communist activities in that country.

The newspaper Izvestia, in a banner line across page one, calls the report a "skyscraper of impudence." The newspaper Pravda says of it:

"Of all anti-Soviet documents in the recent past, the Fish report is the most impudent, insolent and ridiculous. It is 95 pages of absurdity based on forged documents."

WILL SHIFT TRADE.

The Izvestia, says the report, indicates the "fright of the bourgeoisie" that the Soviet republic may succeed in its industrialization plan, and that if American economists do not deny its charges, it will indicate that "fear is making the American people blind."

The paper adds:

"Development of Soviet industry should make for better economic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. If American capitalists think otherwise we shall find other countries which will regard Soviet purchases from a business viewpoint.

"There can be no imports without exports, and we can't believe that the United States, the world's most capitalistic country, should be afraid of the growth of Socialism in Soviet Russia, against which Fish and his committee are howling.

"DUMPING" DENIED

"If it is afraid, it indicates that the breakdown of capitalism in the United States is closer than the most optimistic ever dreamed."

The newspaper in denying "dumping" in American markets, asserted that Russia still imports more than she exports. It declares that the charges of the Fish report are a preparation for economic embargo against Russian goods.

Rich, lasting suds— no waiting!

Mrs. A. M. N.—

"No time wasted working up my suds"

"I used to fuss around, melting soap for my wash," writes a Charlestown woman. "I never realized how much time I did spend that way, until I tried Chipso Granules. They were a revelation to me! Now all I have to do is turn the faucet to get all the suds I need, and they last till my wash is done."

Mrs. C. C. E.—

"Best and easiest way to wash"

"I have a real washing system that does away with hard work," an East Boston woman tells us, "and now Chipso Granules are saving me time as well. I simply pop my clothes into those instant suds and let them soak. When washing time comes, the suds are still there! A few quick rubs—several rinses—my wash is done, and well done too."

"Washday easy as other days now," says Mrs. J. W. M., of Lynnfield Center

Here are Chipso Granules—Chipso suds in ready-prepared form—to make washday shorter! Chipso Granules burst into thick, rich suds instantly, at the touch of water. Every bit of soap is so thoroughly dissolved that these suds last and last. Think of what that means—no waiting for hot water, no time spent "making suds," no time wasted renewing suds. Then, try a package of Chipso Granules today.

Mrs. M. B.—

"Now I have real 'bridge hands'"

"Since Chipso Granules suds make themselves," says a letter from Quincy, "I find I need put my hands in water only about half as much. I can use a dishmop, because dishes don't have to be scrubbed in these suds. At our last bridge club meeting, I actually found myself 'showing off' my hands!"

Mrs. L. C.—

"My washer seems to like Chipso Granules"

"A small amount of Chipso Granules fills my washer almost to bursting with thick velvety suds," writes a Cambridge woman. "My, how wonderfully clean my clothes come out of this suds bath! . . . I find that I run my washer a shorter time with Chipso Granules—and the inside of the machine gleams as though it, too, were pleased with Chipso!"

Color Invades the Mode for Coats

WHEN YOU have the least possible amount of money to invest in yourself, you are not likely to spend it for superfluous fripperies. Dowdiness, such as lavish expenditures breed, is reduced to a fraction when the budget book enters the picture.

* * *

SINCE THESE recent "thirties" have ushered in a feeling for economy, one need not blush to stoop to small frugalities here and there. All our best people are doing it! As you have all learned long era this, a few excellently made things of good fabric are the basis for the limited wardrobe. Good shoes at least one perfect hat, a beautifully made coat and neat accessories can make a few dresses go a long way!

* * *

NOW THAT she has half the feminine population looking distinctive and severely chic in all-black coats, nebulous fashion has a new idea. Now she cries for color, color, color. Those who didn't buy new wraps in November are smirking with satisfaction. For the January budget will buy a bright or pastel coat as readily as it would a somber one—and if a bright fashion is better, why not?

A COAT that adapts itself to sporting and general daytime usage, and is a perfect travel coat, too is the model pictured—of green Chenga, with wide wrap-around front, the weld of the material, and sleeve with stitched cuff of clever detail. The large, fluffy collar is of Kamchatka red fox. The green felt hat has a cuff brim, flaring on sides, with group of cartridge pleats at center front. The capacious bag is in two shades of green leather, has simulated buckle fastening, and is lined in beige suede.

FUR TRIMMING is an item to watch carefully in making the purchase of a gay coat, for the fur that harmonizes with the color of the coat adds subtly to the smartness and charm of the ensemble. Lighter, fluffier furs are used extensively, and are very flattering; and very full collars frame the face prettily, or spread over the shoulders in only a slightly less becoming fashion, according to the weather. The tawny shades of the fur collar pictured blend uncommonly well with the green of the costume. Pale green is charming under dark green, while a yellow beige frock would enhance the coat's versatility.

WICKERSHAM REPORT AGAINST DRY LAW REPEAL, WINE OR BEER

SOME OF MEMBERS DOUBT IF PROHIBITION CAN BE ENFORCED

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Law Enforcement Commission summarized its prohibition report as follow:

"Conclusions and recommendations in the report on the enforcement of the prohibition laws:

"1. The commission is opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"2. The commission is opposed to the restoration in any manner of the legalized saloon.

"3. The commission is opposed to the federal or state governments, as such, going into the liquor business.

"4. The commission is opposed to the proposal to modify the national prohibition act so as to permit manufacture and sale of light wines or beer.

NO ENFORCEMENT YET

"5. The commission is of opinion that the cooperation of the states is an essential element in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the national prohibition act throughout the territory of the United States; that the support of public opinion in the several states is necessary in order to insure such cooperation.

"6. The commission is of opinion that prior to the enactment of the bureau of prohibition act, 1927, the agencies for enforcement were badly organized and inadequate; that subsequent to that enactment there has been continued improvement in organization and effort for enforcement.

"7. The commission is of opinion that there is yet no adequate observance or enforcement.

"8. The commission is of opinion that the present organization for enforcement is still inadequate.

"9. The commission is of opinion that the federal appropriations for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment should be substantially increased and that the vigorous and better organized efforts which have gone on since the bureau of prohibition act, 1927, should be furthered by certain improvements in the statutes and in the organization, personnel and equipment of enforcement, so as to give to enforcement the greatest practicable efficiency.

DOUBT ENFORCEMENT

"10. Some of the commission are not convinced that prohibition under the Eighteenth Amendment is unenforceable and believe that a further trial should be made with the help of the recommended improvements, and that if after such trial effective enforcement is not secured there should be a revision of the amendment.

"Others of the commission are convinced that it has been demonstrated that prohibition under the Eighteenth Amendment is unenforceable and believe that the amendment should be immediately revised, but recognizing that the process of revision will require some time, they unite in the recommendations of conclusion No. 9 for the improvement of the enforcement agencies.

"11. All the commission agree that if the amendment is revised it should be made to read substantially as follows:

"Section 1. The Congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes.

"2. The recommendations referred to in conclusion No. 9 are:

I. Removal of the causes of irritation and resentment on the part of the medical profession viz:

"(A) Doing away with the statutory fixing of the amount which may be prescribed and the number of prescriptions.

"(B) Abolition of the requirement of specifying the ailment for which liquor is prescribed upon a blank to go into the public files.

"(C) Leaving as much as possible to regulations rather than fixing details by statute.

CURB ON SEARCH

2. Removal of the anomalous provisions in Section 23, national prohibition act, as to cider and fruit juices by making some uniform provision for a fixed alcoholic content.

"3. Increase of the number of agents, storekeeper-gaugers, prohibition investigators and special agents; increase in the personnel of the customs bureau and in the equipment of all enforcement organizations.

"4. Enactment of a statute authorizing regulations permitting access to the premises and records of wholesale and retail dealers as to make it possible to trace products of specially denatured alcohol to the ultimate consumer.

"5. Enactment of legislation to prohibit independent denaturing plants.

"6. The commission is opposed to legislation allowing more latitude for federal searches and seizures.

"7. The commission renews the recommendation contained in its previous reports for codification of the national prohibition act and the acts supplemental to and in amendment thereof.

ALL CAN'T AGREE

"8. The commission renews its recommendation of legislation for making procedure in the so-called padlock injunction cases more effective.

"9. The commission recommends legislation providing a mode of prosecuting petty offenses in the federal courts and modifying the increased penalties are of 1929, as set forth in the chairman's letter to the attorney-general dated May 23, 1930, H. R. Rep. 1699.

"There are differences of view among the members of the commission as to certain of the conclusions stated and as to some matters included in or omitted from this report.

"The report is signed subject to individual reservation of the right to express those individual views in separate or supplemental reports to be annexed hereto.

Here Is Hoover Board That Wrote Prohibition Report

AFTER STUDYING the prohibition question for a year and a half the National Law Enforcement Commission has submitted a comprehensive report to President Hoover, in which it declares against the return of the saloon and the legalizing of light beer and wines, and favors a strengthening of the enforcement forces. The members as they appear in the photo are Roscoe Pound, Frank J. Loesch, William I. Grubb, Ada M. Comstock, George W. Wickersham, Newton D. Baker, Henry W. Anderson, Monte M. Lemann, Kenneth R. MacIntosh, Paul J. MacCormick and William S. Kenyon. (I. N. R. photo.)

100,000 Words of 'Yes AND No' Told in 125

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Here is the 100,000-word report of the Law Enforcement Commission in a nutshell:

THE MAJORITY report opposed outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Two of the members favored it.

LIGHT WINES and beer were discarded by the commission as a whole. Four of the commissioners urged this legislation.

THE MAJORITY report favored a further trial for prohibition. Five of the members concurred in their individual reports.

AS A GROUP, the commission opposed entry of the federal or state governments into the liquor business. One member proposed a plan to this end, however, and five more urged its consideration.

A MAJORITY agreed there has been "no adequate observance or enforcement" of prohibition, and that machinery to this end remains inadequate.

ALL AGREED enforcement should be strengthened. Some believed this strengthening should hold only until the amendment is repealed or revised.

Majority Strongly in Favor of Changing Dry Law

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The majority of the law enforcement commissioners have found prohibition sufficiently wanting to warrant a change.

Unable to agree unanimously on a specific remedy, the Wickersham commission and its 11 members embodied their views in an even dozen conflicting reports. All were laid before Congress today by President Hoover.

Thus, of the commission as a whole was a compromise, making no recommendation for repeal or major revision.

In individual conclusions, ten commissioners asked outright repeal four others favored modification, five were for a further trial with some form of referendum meanwhile and the remaining three advocated continued trial with intensified enforcement.

STRONG FOR CHANGE

Separately and collectively, the members condemned many of the conditions under the dry laws, while at the same time noting its benefits. They declared better observance, and enforcement impractical if prohibition is to survive.

With one exception, the whole commission agreed that if the Constitution is to be revised, the best way would be to strike out the present absolute banning of liquor and to give Congress the responsibility of finding a new solution.

The exception was Monte M. Lehman, of Louisiana, who did not sign the main report. He and Newton D. Baker of Ohio recommended repeal.

One commissioner, Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, advanced a proposal for government liquor control, somewhat after the method in effect in Sweden. Commissioners Kenyon, Loesch, Mackintosh, McCormick and Pound recommended consideration of the plan. The endorsements of Kenyon and McCormick were qualified by statements that they favored further trial of the present law.

Besides Anderson, those proposing modification of the Eighteenth Amendment were Ada L. Comstock, Massachusetts; Frank J. Loesch, Illinois, and Roscoe Pound, Massachusetts.

William S. Kenyon, Iowa, and Paul J. McCormick, California, favored further trial with a canvass of public sentiment by referendum or through state conventions.

Those who advise going ahead with the present system under stricter enforcement were Chairman George W. Wickersham, New York; William I. Grubb, Alabama, and Kenneth MacIntosh, State of Washington.

The commission as a whole rejected repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or restoration of the legalized saloon. It expressed opposition to federal or state governments as such going into the liquor business. It opposed modification of the Volstead Act to permit light wines and beer.

CHANGE CIDER LAW

After declaring "there is yet no adequate observance or enforcement," the commission recommended increase of the justice department and customs bureau personnel to prosecute violators.

The law should be amended, the commission said, to clarify the status of cider and fruit juices "by making some uniform provision for a fixed alcoholic content."

New laws were proposed to do away with the fixing of the amount of liquor and the number of prescriptions which a doctor can prescribe.

Legislation allowing more latitude for federal searches and seizures was opposed.

If the dry amendment is to be revised at all, the commissioners agreed it should be made to read substantially as follows:

"The Congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes."

As it now stands, the amendment reads:

"The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

The Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

FAVORS SWEDISH PLAN

Judge Anderson's opinion was by far the most exhaustive of the eleven individual papers, covering 42 of the 286 printed pages of the combined report. His plan for government-controlled liquor sales would be based on the amendment suggested to replace the present Eighteenth Amendment, if such a revision should be entered into.

The Virginia jurist called the Swedish system "by far the most successful of any existing system of liquor control."

Under his plan, Congress would create a bi-partisan liquor control commission—similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission—which would regulate all liquor dealings. Congress also would create a national corporation, all stock of which should be privately owned, to manufacture, import, export, and transport in interstate commerce, all beverages of alcoholic content to be legally sold in the United States.

Prices should be so fixed by the corporation with the consent of the commission, in order that manufacture and sale of liquor by bootleggers would be unprofitable.

The corporation would not be allowed by the commission to ship liquor into states which desire Prohibition. The states would have to enforce the law within their own borders. The corporation would sell and transport only to state agencies created for the purposes of local distribution under state commissions. Local option for communities desiring Prohibition could be established at will by the state.

Actual sales of liquor to individuals would be limited to persons holding lincense books, issued by state agencies. The amount would be limited. Upon conviction for violation of the law, for drunkenness or other cause provided by the state, the license of the individual would be cancelled for such time as might be prescribed.

AID TO SCHOOLS

Profits, made by the national corporation after paying a reasonable dividend to its private stockholders, would go to the Federal Government for developing schools, eliminating slums and educating the people away from intemperance, and to the states. Profits from the state agencies would go to the states for use as the Legislatures might designate.

The report of the commission as a whole embodies a review of the voluminous evidence taken over a period of more than a year and a half. It includes a frank discussion of conditions.

"It is safe to say," said the commission, "that a significant change has taken place in the social attitude toward drinking.

"It is evident that taking the country as a whole, people of wealth, business men and professional men, and their families are drinking in large numbers in frank disregard of the declared policy of the National Prohibition Act."

Turning to the sources of illicit liquor, the commission asserted that "importation is chiefly from Canada, both directly and indirectly." It touched also upon rum coming from the West Indies, "brandy from France and gin from Holland."

The diversion of industrial alcohol, the report said, presented a "grave danger" in certain phases, adding:

"Such as the present situation is an improvement upon the bad conditions of some years ago, it is still far from satisfactory from the standpoint of prohibition. There are too many opportunities for leaks."

Nevertheless, the commission said:

"Illicit distilling has become for the time being the chief source of supply.

TRAFFIC ORGANIZED

"In place of the small still operated by the individual moonshiner, there are plants of a capacity fairly comparable to the oldtime lawful distillery.

"The business of maintaining and operating them is well organized, has found how to shift locations systematically, and has learned to calculate for seizures and destructions of stills as part of the overhead. The employers are assured a counsel in case of prosecution. If convicted, their fines are paid for them. If imprisoned, their families are cared for and they are re-employed on release."

The commission concluded that as a consequence of this "high development of illicit distilling," a "steady volume of whisky, much of it of good quality, is put in circulation."

It added that the "prices at which it is obtainable are a convincing testimony to the ineffectiveness of enforcement against this source of supply."

As for the making of wine and beer in the home, the commission concluded that "necessity seems to compel the virtual abandonment of efforts for effective enforcement at this point," adding, however, that "this is done at the price of nullification to that extent."

It is under Section 29 that grape concentrate manufacturers are selling their product.

ABOUT HOME BREW

"Why home wine making should be lawful while homebrewing of beer and home-distilling of spirits are not, why home wine making for home use is less reprehensible than making the same wine outside the home for home use, and why it should be penal to make wine commercially for use in homes, and not penal to make in huge quantities the material for wine making and set up in every grocery a campaign for disposing of them, is not apparent."

Discussing its medicinal liquor recommendation the commission said:

"We are satisfied that in several particulars the causes of resentment on the part of the medical profession operate against a favorable public opinion to such an extent as to outweigh the advantages to enforcement."

The commission hit out strenuously at the failure of the federal prohibition forces to entrap the real leaders of the bootlegging business.

"It is common knowledge, and a general source of dissatisfaction with enforcement of the national prohibition act, that the big operators or head men in the traffic are rarely caught," said the report. "Those who are found distilling, or transporting, or selling, are merely employes. Behind them are the heads of an organization, supplying the capital, making the plans, and reaping the large profits.

"To catch them calls for a much higher type of enforcement organization and a higher and more experienced type of agents than have been available in the past."

Bay Staters Join Others on Board for Modification

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Here is the gist the plan for modification of the prohibition amendment proposed by Henry W. Anderson, and recommended for consideration by Law Enforcement Commissioners Kenyon, Loesch, Mackintosh, McCormick and Pound:

"It is proposed that as soon as practicable, by appropriate action of Congress and of the states, the Eighteenth Amendment be modified or revised as follows:

"The congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes.'

"This modification would bring the amendment into comformity with the traditional principles of our system of government. By conferring power upon Congress it would give to the amendment the necessary flexibility. The power to prohibit should be given to the end that if the proposed modification is adopted the national Prohibition Act would continue in force thereunder until Congress enacted some other plan, thus avoiding any break in the system of control and preventing the restoration of the saloon anywhere in the United States.

UP TO CONGRESS

"Under the proposed amendment as modified, Congress would have full power: (1) To continue the present system of absolute national prohibition, or (2) to permit the matter in whole or in part to the states, or (3) to adopt any system of effective control. Since greater flexibility is one of the outstanding needs of the present system, this modification should be made even if the policy of absolute national prohibition is to be continued.

"That Congress should then create a bipartisan national commission on liquor control, which should have full power under such laws as Congress might enact to regulate and control the manufacture, importation, exportation, transportation in interstate commerce, and also the sale, as and to the extent hereinafter stated, of intoxicating liquors of more than one-half of one per centum alcoholic content, for beverage purposes; and to exercise similar regulation and control over alcoholic liquors for other purposes, and of industrial alcohol, to the full extent necessary to render the system of control of such liquors for beverage purposes effective.

"The powers of the commission as to the regulation and control of the traffic indicated and of the agencies created for the purposes thereof should be fully as complete as those of the Interstate Commerce Commission over railroads and should in every respect be adequate for the purposes of the plan.

FIXES ITS POWERS

"That Congress should create a national corporation for the purposes of the plan, all of the stock of which should be privately owned, or, in its discretion, a number of such corporations, such as one for each judicial circuit. . . .

"It should be vested with the exclusive right and power to be exercised under the control and regulations of the national commission) of manufacture, importation, exportation and transportation in interstate commerce, and of sale as and to the extent hereafter stated, of all alcoholic liquors for beverage, as well as for medicinal and sacramental purposes in, within or from the territory of the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof. . . .

It added that the "prices at which it is obtainable are a convincing testimony to the ineffectiveness of enforcement against this source of supply."

As for the making of wine and beer in the home, the commission concluded that "necessity seems to compel the virtual abandonment of efforts for effective enforcement at this point," adding, however, that "this is done at the price of nullification to that extent."

"It should be required by law that alcoholic liquors for beverage, medicinal or sacramental purposes of over one-half of one per cent alcoholic content by volume (not including industrial alcohol) might be manufactured, imported, exported, transported in interstate commerce, or sold . . . solely by the national corporation, or its branches. . . . The commission should have to prescribe the alcoholic content of the various kinds and grades of liquors.

"All alcoholic liquors so acquired or produced should be promptly entered in bonded warehouses of the corporation.

"The corporation should only be allowed to make sales and shipment of such liquors in any state to a corporate agency created by such state similar in general character to the national corporation, for the purpose of the purchase and distribution and retail sale of such liquors within the state if and to the extent permitted by the laws thereof.

"If the state at its option elected not to adopt the system it could establish or continue prohibition, in which event it would have to enforce its own laws within the state, but the Federal law would not permit sales or shipments into that state by the national corporation except through the state in bond.

"Every aspect of the operations outlined would be subject to the control and regulation of the commission and appropriate penalties would be prescribed for violations of the law or of such regulations.

"The price at which the various liquors should be sold by the national corporation should be fixed or approved by the commission after hearing in proper cases. . . . The prices should be based primarily upon and scaled upward on the basis of alcoholic content —the lower prices on low alcoholic content liquors such as light wines and beer, and the highest prices practicable on high alcoholic content liquors, such as whiskies and brandies.

"The prices should be such as on the one hand to limit the use and, on the other hand, not high enough to permit the illegal traffic in or sale of such liquors. . . . The prices should be as nearly uniform as possible throughout the country.

UNDER STATE RULE

"The national corporation should sell and transport only to state agencies created for the purpose of local distribution and sale within the state. This would be entirely optional with the state. If any state desired to establish or continue prohibition it could do so. In that event it would have to enforce its own law within the state, but would be protected by the federal government from any supply from outside.

"If a state elected to go into the national system it would create a state commission and a state corporation similar in character and structure to the national agencies discussed, with similar powers and functions within the state. The state agencies would have to conform in general outline to a plan prescribed by the National Commission in order to insure uniformity throughout the country in all matters of general consequence, but as to local questions they would be subject only to state control and could easily be adapted to the varied social and economic conditions within the state.

"Matters of price, return and other financial and operating details within the state would be controlled by the state commission along the same lines as already discussed, and the surplus revenues from operations within the state would go into the state treasury as a special fund to be disposed of by the Legislature of the state. . . .

"The state could permit local option as to the establishment of a sales agency in any given community. These agencies should be in buildings where no other commercial activity is carried on, should be open only at certain hours of the day, on such business days as might be prescribed by state law or regulation.

"Sales should be limited to persons holding license books, which should be issued by the state agency nearest the fixed abode or voting place of the holder under regulations of the commission. The holder should be required to sign an agreement in

Can't PLAY
Can't REST
—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

Bay Staters Are for Revising Law

Full Enforcement of the Act Is Held Impossible at Present Time

Following are the views of Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard and Ada L. Comstock, Massachusetts members of the Wickersham committee, favoring a change in the present national dry law. Miss Comstock is president of Radcliffe and the only woman on the commission.

By DEAN ROSCOE POUND

While making enforcement as we may, so long as the amendment as it is remains the supreme law of the land, we should be at work to enable the fundamental difficulties to be reached.

This, it seems clear, can only be done by a revision of the amendment. It can be done only by so redrawing the amendment as, on the one hand, to preserve federal control and a check upon bringing back of the saloon anywhere, and, on the other hand, allow of an effective control adapted to local conditions in places where, as things are at least, it is futile to seek a nationally enforced general total abstinence.

As to what might be done if the amendment were revised, it would be possible to return or come back to complete prohibition throughout the land, or to retain it where it is effective, protecting such areas in their policy, and yet to establish some form of control for localities where complete prohibition has proved or may prove ineffective.

It requires an unwarranted lack of faith in American political ingenuity to assume that no such forms of control may be worked out.

Mr. Anderson has proposed a well-thought-out plan, based on study of systems of liquor control and their operation. His plan deserves careful consideration as the best and most complete which has been brought to our attention. This or some like plan for adapting national control to local conditions may well be the next forward step.

ADA L. COMSTOCK

ROSCOE POUND

By ADA L. COMSTOCK

The material which has been brought before the commission has convinced me that adequate enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the national prohibition act is impossible without the support of a much larger proportion of our population than it now commands.

I am one of the members of the commission who favor an immediate attempt at change. As I still hope that federal regulation of the liquor traffic may prove more effective than that of the states, I favor revision of the amendment rather than its repeal.

Early Change Is Urged to End Conditions Bared by Board's Report

Wickersham's Job Was Not to Pass on Law's Justice

Washington, Jan. 20 (INS)—Did a majority of the Wickersham Commission force Chairman George W. Wickersham to abandon his original intention not to report on either the desirability or undesirability of the 18th Amendment?

Wickersham, in testimony before the House Appropriations Committee on May 27, 1930, declared the commission had no intention of going beyond the questions of law enforcement.

Members of the House, who recalled the testimony, expressed surprise when they learned of the recommendation for retention of the amendment.

After Wickersham had told the committee: "We did not conceive it to be our duty to go behind the Eighteenth Amendment," Rep. Cranton (R.) of Michigan, a dry, said:

"I am not arguing with you, because you have indicated your position to be the same as that I have advanced, but may I suggest that when Congress creates a commission to inquire into the problem of enforcing the law, they have not created a commission to determine whether that law should be enforced, or whether that law should be repealed."

"If you desire to make that specific in the language of this appropriation, you would relieve me of great embarrassment," said Wickersham.

"Congress has already made it specific," said Cranton.

Wickersham added:

"I think there is a very large public misapprehension of the duties of the commission. I find people expecting that we are going to make some report or finding that shall say that prohibition is or is not a desirable thing for the country."

PEACE WOMEN HEAR WAR TALK

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Army, Navy, and aviation experts today placed before 600 women peace leaders of the cause and cure of war conference the way they looked at war.

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol of the Navy general board, warned against too much confidence in ending international strife through disarmament.

"If you can produce the political, economical, social and religious conditions which eliminate international selfish rivalry," he said, "you can develop a world wherein armamenta will disappear by common consent."

Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations, said the world is packmarked by ignorance, selfishness, fear and intolerance—"the fundamental factors at the bottom of all wars."

Even the possibility of limiting war and prolonging periods of peace, he said, is contingent on "the use of force of some kind."

Comerford Named to State Mutual Board

Worcester, Jan. 20 (AP)—The State Mutual Life Assurance Company at its annual meeting today elected as a new director Frank D. Comerford of Boston, president of the New England Power Association.

Twelve claims during the year amounting to $288,140, arose from suicides due to the stock market collapse. The company has lengthened the non-liability period for suicide from one to two years.

Italian Birth Rate Shows Increase

Rome, Jan. 20 (AP)—Italy's birth rate showed a slight increase in 1930, being 26 per thousand compared with 25.2 per thousand in 1929. The actual number of births was 1,085,163, an increase of 44,768.

The death rate in 1930 dropped from 16.1 per thousand in 1929 to 13.7, and the excess of births over deaths was 515,002. Preliminary figures give the population of Italy as 41,846,088, an increase of 338,008.

The craft looks like a torpedo boat, with wings and is of biplane type. Her motors are said to be 1000-horsepower, capable of developing a cruising speed of 140 miles an hour.

Wickersham Board Against Repeal, Wine or Beer

this book to account for the purchases made thereunder at any time on request and to the satisfaction of the state corporation or state commission. . . .

PENALTIES FIXED

"The amount of wine and beer below an alcoholic content to be fixed from time to time by the appropriate commission might or might not be limited to a reasonable quantity in any month, having a regard to the proposed use by the purchaser with a view to limiting the use and preventing purchases for illegitimate purposes. . . .

Upon conviction for violation of the law, for drunkenness or other cause provided by law, the book should be cancelled for such time as might be prescribed. All state and national regulations should seek to restrict sales and use as far as may be done, without leaving a possible demand which could be supplied at a profit by bootleggers. . . . No advertisement of alcoholic liquors or solicitations of purchases should be permitted.

"The excess revenues from the operations of the national corporation would go into the Federal Treasury, and those from the operations of the state corporation and its branches would go into the state treasury. These revenues, which now go entirely to the lawless and criminal classes, would undoubtedly be very large. They would be subject to disposition by Congress and the State Legislatures, respectively. They should be set aside as special funds in the respective treasuries, and used for educational purposes, especially as to the evils resulting from the use of alcoholic beverages and for the eradication and prevention of those conditions which cause excessive drinking, or which tend to create a demand for intoxicating beverages."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

The wheels of progress move toward the day of renewed prosperity.

At the dawn of the new era let us of New England throw off the old cloak of conservatism and hesitation.

Let it be said:

New England business organizations turn first to New England manufacturers.

New England manufacturers and other interests consider the port of Boston as the "Golden Gateway" of the Atlantic.

New England banking institutions first foster New England enterprises.

Let the watchword be co-operation.

Organized effort alone is all that is necessary for New England to take her rightful place in the prosperity that is to come.

Praises Religious Collection at Library

Editor Boston American:

Having occasion to consult religious weeklies in my inquiries through the United States, I have found the best collection in the Boston Public Library.

Some public libraries seem to show religious prejudice in their selection of such weeklies, but the best and most liberal selection of these weeklies is to be found in the Boston Public Library and I would like others to know this if they have to consult these papers in libraries.

Lauds Married Women Working for Better Homes

Editor Boston American:

I have read quite a number of letters in your paper regarding married women working, and that Gov. Ely should start and have them all discharged. I would like to know of any woman who would work if she did not need her pay.

This is supposed to be a free country and any woman that wants to earn some money honestly so she can have a home when she gets older instead of filling up state and city institutions should be allowed to do so.

I am sorry about all those single girls when they have a job they won't work half the time and then only in a slipshod way. Employer's don't want that kind.

Perhaps if they would scoop in all those aliens, who are not citizens and will plainly tell you they never intend to be, there would be jobs for all 100 per cent U. S. citizens that needed one.

They would spend their wages here where they earn it and make business better, where the aliens, at least a good percentage of them, hoard every penny then float back to their own country and spend it and laugh up their sleeve at good foolish Uncle Sam.

STOUGHTON READER

Wife Defends Married Women as Earners

Editor Boston American:

Would you kindly print my letter?

It aggravates me considerably every time I hear of anyone trying to down a married woman for working.

What is this great difference people see in a woman, once she chooses to live with one man, instead of keeping company with anyone?

Why should she change and or forget to exist just because she is married? There's nothing dishonorable in a woman working for her home.

Any man earns a living wage but the stock never considers there is only one man earning and no man is made of machinery.

I'm twenty-one now. I have two children, and am living on less than twenty-five dollars a week because the company deducts some for charity. Too bad they wouldn't consider a married man's family and look for charity from the single girls.

When people start to put a stop to a married woman working I'm of the opinion that I'll not be the only one who will be discouraged enough to give up married life and find a way to be single again.

A MARRIED WOMAN.

Auto Deaths Outrank Those in Rail Crashes

Editor Boston American:

Rail road wrecks are few and far between these days. Two in New Engl and are recorded lately. At one time in New England they were of frequent occurrence. Today they seldom happen. Many safety appliances have cut down the number of the killed and injured.

The motors killed 16 last week in this state. If the railroads had killed 16 in this state during the past week, most of us would be storming railroad officials and their offices.

It makes a great difference today what kills you. Motors kill more children in a year than railroads kill in ten years. We have got to rid roads of some motorists. Some plan will be devised to put these careless, drunken drivers out of commission. Anyone charged with manslaughter by autos whether guilty or not should be deprived of a license for running an auto. This may be drastic but we will sooner or later come to this.

Disagrees With Writer's Alien View

The sincerity of Mr. Joseph O'Keefe is unquestionable, in my opinion, but he is mistaken notwithstanding.

It wasn't Mr. O'Keefe's [illegible] greatest crime an American can perpetrate is treason, and the treason of Americans cost the United States 21,000 lives in one engagement alone when Americans themselves tried to overthrow their organized government. THE MYSTERY OF GERALDINE

By ANTHONY ABBOT

Torn Letter in Handwriting of Geraldine Found in Desk by Detective

How the Story Started

Geraldine Foster, a very attractive young reception clerk in the Washington sq. office of Dr. Humphrey Maskell, "Laughing Doctor," vanished from her Morningside Heights apartment in The Esplanade on the night before Christmas. Her room mate, Betty Canfield, reported her disappearance to police three days after Christmas and appealed directly to Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt for aid. He starts the police on the trail and goes himself to the apartment to search and question Betty. Father and mother of Geraldine arrive and lend their aid.

Now Go On With Story.

CHAPTER 4

The Green Key

"GERALDINE ALWAYS used to say she hated the tyranny of things," exclaimed Betty, lending Thatcher Colt and me into the bedroom, "so there isn't much to look at. The new trunk there contains most of her trousseau."

But our search of these garments, scented sweetly for a honeymoon, gave us no information.

"May I see Geraldine's comb?" asked the Commissioner presently.

"Not a single tiny strand of hair left in it," he remarked disconsolately. "Has she a used hair net left lying around?"

Saved Hairs

Betty vanished into a closet and returned with a net cap which she said Geraldine sometimes wore after she had treated her hair. Clinging to it were several strands of fine, brown hair which Thatcher Colt removed with great care.

In the left pocket of his coat he found an envelope into which he dropped the hairs and then sealed the flap. On the outside of the envelope, the Commissioner wrote in his small, precise hand, "Samples of the hair of Geraldine Foster."

Having tucked this in his pocket he turned to a closet door and opened it, revealing a clothes closet.

"Was this her coat?" asked Thatcher Colt, taking down a tweed jacket, the skirt of which was hanging nearby.. As Betty nodded, the Commissioner began fingering through the patch pockets and presently he drew forth a key.

"Is this for your front door?" he asked

Betty said it was not. Nor did she know what lock it fitted. Thatcher Colt stepped out of the closet and examined the key closely.

It was a large one, of greenish metal, with an elliptical bow, a long stem, thick shoulders and a bit composed of a number of irregular projections—a key to fit an intricate and old-fashioned lock.

Key Unknown

Through the bow was knotted a piece of blue ribbon, as if it had been worn on a loop—perhaps against the bosom of the missing Geraldine

I put the key in my pocket while Colt asked the parents if they recognized the key. They flatly declared that they did not. With eyes more sombre than ever, the Commissioner then resumed his investigation.

Betty led the way, pointing out the objects that had belonged to Geraldine

Finding them unlocked, Thatcher Colt removed the drawers and spilled their contents on the couch. Piece by piece he examined the papers, a loose assortment of insurance premium receipts, bills from dry-cleaners and department stores, the commonplace memoranda from any girl's life.

Nevertheless, Thatcher Colt asked Betty to preserve them. One letter was found from the father, thanking her for a new necktie. A little later, the Commissioner found a message that had come by special delivery.

"Dear Sis, for the love of Mike wire me twenty-five bucks, will you? Your loving brother Bruce." Perhaps there were two hundred separate papers in this disorderly jumble.

"Do you know of any other place where Geraldine might have kept important papers?" asked Thatcher Colt.

"She always boasted she kept only harmless things and destroyed the dangerous ones," replied Betty

"Everything connected with my daughter was harmless," asserted Edmund L. Foster firmly

At that moment Thatcher Colt was bending over, on the pouns of pushing the second drawer of the desk back into place, when suddenly he stopped and thrust his hand and arm deep into the dark recess.

Different Ink

Presently he drew out into the light a fragment of green note paper, on which some words were written in ink. When Thatcher Colt handled the scrap of paper to Betty she instantly exclaimed:

"This is Geraldine's handwriting—and in a low voice she read aloud

"I will never show the white feather. You tell me it is right Something tells me it is very wrong. Very wicked. Once in your sleep I heard you utter her name. I am getting married and I need the money. I must have $4000 from you or—"

A deep silence followed her reading of that cryptic fragment of a letter, and especially that last deeply significant clause Geraldine Foster a blackmailer! And who had talked in sleep, in the hearing of this pretty girl who could not be found?

There was a strange look in the old father's eyes as he kept his gaze fixed on the calm inscrutable face of his wife a look of determined, obstinate refusal to believe

At last Thatcher Colt spoke

"This is all very different from the mental portrait you gave me of Geraldine," he protested. "The girl you painted

TUFTS STARS GUARDED IN FEVER CASE

All Held in Fraternity House as One of Mates Is Stricken Ill

With mid-year examinations only two days away, 15 Tufts College students were quarantined today in the Sigma Tau Alpha fraternity house, 163 College ave., Somerville, because one of the members has scarlet fever.

Mark Seaver, varsity wrestler, was removed from the fraternity house to Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Medford. The quarantined students, mostly seniors include two basketball stars, two wrestlers and several varsity football and baseball players

The quarantine may cause cancellation of the Tufts-Brown basketball game Friday and interfere with the wrestling team schedule. Seaver practiced with his team yesterday and the other members are to be examined by college doctors.

Meanwhile, Dean Frank G. Wren is in a quandry as to how the members of the fraternity will take their mid-year exams. He will decide between now and Thursday whether to ask for a volunteer monitor to supervise the examinations or allow the youths to take them on the honor system.

Among those quarantined are James Harding, Jr. junior, of the varsity wrestling team; John Chase and Felix Adernikewitz, both members of the varsity basketball squad and Raymond G. Ockert, varsity baseball and football star.

Seaver, who wrestles in the 135-pound class, complained of being ill last night. This morning physician discovered he has scarlet fever.

Dinosaurs Had Rheumatism, Legislators Are Told

Even the dinosaurs, those prehistoric creatures, had rheumatism and arthritis, Dr. Robert H. Good of the Harvard Medical School told the House committee on public health today urging passage of a bill for a hospital for study and treatment of rheumatism.

The bill provides, by the department of public health, for appropriation of $1 million for the hospital and $2 from authority to issue bonds or notes. It would be the first of its kind in the country.

"Rheumatism is the oldest disease of which we know anything," said Dr Good, who is an international authority "Evidence of arthritis has been found in the great toe joint of a dinosaur that lived probably 100 million years ago, and also in prehistoric mummies of ancient Egypt.

"Founding of this hospital would be a wonderful thing. The problem is one of general regime and it is necessary to study the patient as a whole. Many times the condition is due to fatigue

"It doesn't start in the joints, and we are seeking the specific causes. We are in the same position with respect to rheumatism and arthritis that we were 50 years ago with respect to tuberculosis, which is now being treated in the proper way. Arthritis is an advancing enemy and should be routed"

Dr. George H. Ryan, state commissioner of public health said [illegible] control of communicable diseases. Mr. Ryan [illegible] from communicable diseases [illegible] are different from cancer.

GIRL AND BOY INJURED IN 2 BOSTON SCHOOLS

Mayor Curley and Council Agree to Measure Offered by Representative Dailey

Bills for payments to the parents of Dorothea Carson and Raymond Purrington, both of whom died from injuries suffered in Boston schools, were filed with the Legislature today

Rep Francis D. Dailey of Roxbury sponsored the bill that would allow the city to pay not more than $5000 to the parents of the Carson girl whose death was attributed to a kick suffered in the dressing room of the Aaron Davis school, Roxbury

HURLEY TAKES A HAND

Both measures were approved by the city council and Mayor Curley, the legislative action being a matter of law to authorize the payments

The death of the Carson girl and its circumstances were revealed last November in the Boston Evening American after her father, George Carson, appealed to Atty. John J. McCarthy of Charlestown Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley and Dist-Atty. William J. Foley were appealed to and Joseph I. Hurley, chairman of the school committee took a hand in the case.

A complete investigation of the death was made and finally it revealed the girl died from kicks administered by two boys in the school.

PRANK CAUSED DEATH

The Purrington boy lived a week after a boyish prank in his classroom of the Bunker Hill school, Charlestown, resulted in the injury that sent him to City Hospital.

The father of the boy, a Boston patrolman, declined grand jury action against the culprit on account of his age and the innocence of the act, he said.

JOHN M'CORMACK INVITES EVERYBODY TO IRELAND IN 1932

SPEAKS FOR EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Great Preparations Are Being Made in Dublin for the Thousands of Visitors

John McCormack, the singer, today extended a personal invitation to everybody to come to Dublin, his home town, in Ireland, for the Eucharistic Congress in June, 1932.

The famous tenor, who is in Boston for a concert at Symphony Hall tomorrow evening, waxed enthusiastic over the prospect of the visit to which the whole people of Ireland is looking forward with intense eagerness.

"Yes, I think I shall sing, and be serving in official capacities as one of the papal chamberlains," he said.

"It is going to be one of the great events of all time for Catholics the world over. Elaborate preparations for taking care of thousands of visitors have been made and I hope that no one will miss this Congress."

McCormack spoke feelingly of the joy of the people in making these preparations and said he hoped the great news services of the world would report it as well as they did the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago.

HE'S NOT "HOLLYWOOD"

He declared that, although he has bought a home in Hollywood, he has not gone "Hollywood" as many people understand that term.

"And whoopee. Why, the only whoopee I found was what I read about," he chuckled. "The folks on the lots have no time to make whoopee. They work, and work hard, too. It has been a long time since I got up at 6:30 every morning in order to be ready for work at the studio at 8, but I had to do it for eight weeks while I made my one and only 'talkie.' The film folks have their fun mostly cracking jokes and ragging each other between long, tedious waits on the lot."

He said that he was an more satisfied to discuss the future of talking picture than the Englishman who came over here to study conditions, returned on the next boat and reported that America was all wrong.

FAVORS CENSORSHIP

"It was a thrilling experience for me when I made 'Song O' My Heart' he went on, "And the reproduction of my voice was amazing. I heard it in a tiny town in County Kildare and it sounded much better than in New York—better, I think than in person.

"As for the legitimate stage, it will prosper just as long as it gives the people what they want an dnot a week after it cease doing that.

"Some theatrical people do not believe in censorship. Personally, I am for it just like I am for traffic cops. Some think they know how to drive and cross at the right time, but they do not. We can no more afford to let the stage go its own gait than the self confident driver without a traffic cop to halt him when necessary."

Censorship is necessary, he added, because what some producers may think is good for the public, is not fit for the public to see.

CHANGES URGED IN TESTS

Classes in business administration, open to college and high school graduates, may be added to the Boston school system next year.

A rolling calling for the establishment of such classes was presented to the school committee at their regular meeting last night by Committeeman William A. Reilly. The motion was referred to the board of superintendents, with a request that they make an early report on it.

In presenting the motion, Committeeman Reilly stated that it was becoming increasingly difficult for Boston youths who had acquired classical educations in the schools and colleges of this city to find a place for themselves in the business world.

Many college men are compelled, upon graduation, to take post-graduate courses in business administration, he said.

The board of superintendents, after having carefully considered a motion adopted by the school committee last September concerning the examination of pupils in the day high schools, last night submitted a report on the matter.

Four recommendations were made by the board.

The first was that the headmaster of each high school give personal attention to the development in his school of worthwhile standards through the medium of tests and examinations.

The second recommendation was that classroom teachers give frequent short written tests with occasional tests of somewhat greater length.

Department heads are urged in the third recommendation to enlarge their supervisory activities by carefully following up the practice of the classroom teachers in class testing and by developing properly organized departmental tests.

Creation of a central agency to give occasional city-wide tests on various subjects is contained in the fourth recommendation.

Chairman Joseph J. Hurley stated that the committee has not accepted the report of the board of superintendents and that no action will be taken on it for at least three months.

DEATH NEARS FOR GUIFFRE

With police making little progress in the hunt for the gunmen who put Carmelo Guiffre "on the spot," Saturday, the North End gang leader was close to death at the Relief Hospital, still ignoring pleas of police to name his attackers.

But a few hours of life remain to Guiffre. Peritonitis developed in the wound, and pneumonia, which set in early Sunday, was also sapping his strength.

More than a score of police were in the district last night grilling every person believed to have been connected with a gang.

Two men stopped for questioning and searched were arrested yesterday when police found revolvers in their possession.

The men are Luigi Pretormale, 26, of 34 Clark st., North End, who was arrested by Sergt. Louis Di Sessa, and Nicholas De Gregio, 38, of 177 Endicott st., North End Patrolman Samuel Dunlap, Jr., arrested De Gregio.

Thomas Lanso of the North End, picked up Sunday night during the hunt for the attackers of Guiffre, was sentenced to four to five years in State prison on a charge of having narcotics.

PAY INCREASE IS URGED FOR SCRUBWOMEN

Legislators and Labor Leaders Back Increase Bill for State House Women

Raising the pay of the 52 scrub women employed at the State House from $16.50 to $20 a week was urged by a group of Legislators and labor representatives at a hearing today before the legislative committee on public service.

It was also urged that overtime pay be increased from 80 cents an hour to 60 cents.

The present 33-hour work week would be retained

SUPERVISORS OPPOSED.

Rep. William P. Hickey of Boston, petitioner for the legislation, claimed that women doing similar work at City Hall get $20 a week and labor under more happy conditions.

One section of the bill under which Mrs. Jennie Luke, supervisor of cleaners, would have her salary increased from $1800 to $2500 a year met with opposition.

Miss Margaret Wiseman, secretary of the Consumers League declared that before any such action is taken it might be well to investigate and see if it wouldn't be better to have some one else as department head.

Miss Wiseman criticized the place assigned the women in the sub-basement, saying it was not only dirty but lacked ordinary comforts.

HARVARD ACTION SCORED

The action of Harvard University in refusing to meet the wage standards set up by the minimum wage commission for women cleaners was bitterly scored by former Representative Thomas A. Niland of East Boston. Niland also denounced the recent cartoon in the Harvard Lampoon which he claimed slandered these women who benefited through the generosity of some of the alumni of the college.

Others favoring the wage increase were Representatives Carl A. Weckel of Methuen, Edward J. Kelley of Worcester, John P. Connolly of Boston and Thomas F. Carroll of Revere, and Robert J. Watt of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor and Mary Gordon Thompson, president of the Boston Women's Trade Union League.

Montana Woman Lost 17 Pounds Weight In 4 Weeks

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929 by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

Gain in charm and vivaciousness.

Gain a healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

And all insignificant cost—isn't it time to use common sense?

Please read this letter carefully:

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present writing have been just four weeks, I weigh 214 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way. Besides looking much better.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in a easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. Just try one bottle and be guided by the following directions. I am sure it will convince any one. I bought my second bottle today."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any druggist in America.

Why not buy one bottle—if not perfectly satisfied obtain your money back. When taking Kruschen you can reduce more swiftly by eating out plenty of fatty meats—go light on potatoes, sugar, cream and sweets—it is the safe way to reduce.

PORT OFFICIALS HEAR 25-YEAR STREET PLAN

Great Project to Benefit Shipping Interests, Fay Says at Conference

Boston shipping interests will be greatly benefited by the thoroughfare plan of the Boston planning board, to be carried out over a period of 25 years, it was stated at a conference yesterday between officials of the planning board and port officials.

The conference, called by the Boston Port Authority, was presided over by Richard Parkhurst, secretary. It was called so that shipping interests could become acquainted with details of the plans. Frederic H. Fay, chairman of the planning board, outlined each step way in the 25-year plan. Comprehensive data of traffic conditions was in possession of the planning board when it made its findings, he stated.

A central artery, in which traffic will consistently move at a fast clip, is the backbone of the plan, the first step of which will be the East Boston tunnel, now under way.

Yale Offers $25,000 for Old North's Silver Tankards

Tankards and chalices, some of which were wrought by Paul Revere, and from which famous Revolutionary War figures partook of Communion in the Old North Congregational Church, Marblehead, are being sought by Yale University, it was learned today.

Rev. Dwight I. Cart, rector of the church, which was founded in 1684, announced that representatives of Yale had offered $25,000 for the Communion service, which includes four tankards, six chalices, one christening bowl and several bread plates.

According to Rev. Cart, no value has been placed on the service, several pieces of which bear the markings of silversmiths famous in the early 18th century.

About ten years ago, Francis Bigelow of Cambridge, acting for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, attempted to purchase the service. The Yale University offer has been referred to the parish committee.

Much romance is connected with the service. It was while Sir Charles Henry Frankland of England was taking communion from the service that he became attracted to Agnes Surriana, scrub maid in the Fountain Inn, famous hostelry of that period. He made her his ward, and 10 years later married her in Spain.

North End Gang Shooting Tip Wins $15 Award

Carmella Guiffre—not intentionally, of course—was the basis for the first award of the part week in the Boston Evening American News Tip Contest.

Almost with the echo of the shots that laid Guiffre low, Ben Perlier, of 26 Barton st., West End, was on the telephone with the first tip and details—and to Penter goes the chief award of $15.

PRISON FIRE WINS

The second award of $10, is divided between William Hutchinson of Wollaston and Mrs. Bertha H. Peterson of 74 Hamden circle, Wollaston, in connection with the burning of Simon Swig's ballroom in that town.

Hutchinson had the first tip on the fire, while Mrs Peterson turned in an excellent photograph of the blaze.

The third prize of $5 to a man who wishes his name withheld, and is for report of a fire in the house of the Norfolk Prison Farm superintendent.

Morris Fi her, 358 Cross st., Malden; Malden Court probation office telephone with the first tip and details—and to Penter goes the chief award of $15.

G C Lewis 88 summer st, Malden, assistance on probation officer story.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should learn all about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of indigestion and children generally suffer. Sour stomach, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in relieving sour milk curds from infant feeding and preventing their curds. Be sure to get only genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 30 years.

ACTING MAYOR M'GRATH TAKES CURLEY'S JOB

MISS CURLEY IN PARTY

Mary Curley, the mayor's daughter, Miss Loretta Bremner of Chicago, fiancee of the late James M Curley, Jr.; Cornelius A. Reardon the mayor's secretary, and John J Sullivan, assistant secretary, were also in the party.

Forty friends, headed by City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan were at the station to see the group off.

Acting Mayor McGrath assumed the executive chair for the first time since his election two weeks ago as president of the City Council, the office automatically passing him acting head of the city.

"I am hopeful for success, but I realize how difficult is the journey of legislation in Washington," the Mayor said.

"We will work hard and do our best. If Congress will give Governor's Island to us I am sure the Legislature will permit us to borrow $1,250,000 outside the debt limit for the development and improvement of the airport.

FOR BEST AIRPORT

"If we are successful, Boston, within two years, will have the best airport in the entire world."

Mayor Curley and his party will meet Congressman John W. McCormack at the Capital to further action on the annexation of Governor's Island for enlargement of the airport. The $3,000,000 harbor improvement bill, the federal industrial planning bill, and measures for soldiers relief by federal appropriations to relieve the burden of cities and towns.

Mayor Curley is also scheduled for a luncheon with Senator Sargent and others interested in the Mississippi river project.

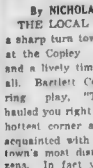
By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THE LOCAL DRAMA took a sharp turn toward gangland at the Copley last evening, and a lively time was had by all. Bartlett Cormack's stirring play, "The Racket," hauled you right into Chicago's hottest corner and made you acquainted with some of that town's most disreputable citizens. In fact you spent the night in a police station where, it was discovered, disputes were generally settled by gentlemen alert on the draw.

* * *

"THE RACKET," you might say, was just a pip term from Chicago's biggest and best advertised business. Also it was rattling good melodrama, with gunmen and reputed politicians making things exceedingly difficult for one honest policeman. It was the old story of graft and corruption, with political connivance in Mozart, wrote much of it on his death bed. Parts of it were dictated to his faithful pupil, Süssmayer, and parts of it were either completed or originally composed by the latter.



Nicholas Young

The performance, competent though it was in many respects, suffered from a certain stodginess. The chorus had evidently been carefully prepared, and pleased this writer more than the soloists. The most vital thing was the opportunity to hear a piece of unquestioned greatness.

CANTATA CLUB GIVES CLASSIC

By MOSES SMITH

The Bach Cantata Club, that admirable organization conducted by G. Wallace Woodworth in which Boston now owes the performance of choral works that would not otherwise be heard, gave last night a performance of Mozart's last composition, the Requiem Mass, before a reverent audience at Emmanuel Church. Mozart, wrote much of it on his death bed. Parts of it were dictated to his faithful pupil, Süssmayer, and parts of it were either completed or originally composed by the latter.

The performance, competent though it was in many respects, suffered from a certain stodginess. The chorus had evidently been carefully prepared, and pleased this writer more than the soloists. The most vital thing was the opportunity to hear a piece of unquestioned greatness.

SPEEDY SHOW GAYETY BILL

The show at the Gayety this week gets away to a fast start and keeps increasing its speed until the fina, curtain. A big program is offered, in addition to the entertainment offered by Fitzie While and Bob Stattman and the whole company of "Dimpled Darlings."

There is a minstrel number, with Jack Strouse, original blackface comedian with the "Seven, Come Eleven" show. LJ Irving, billed as a pupil of the late Harry Houdini, had the audience puzzled from start to finish.

In addition, Roberta Bent and Driscoll, in "Two Hops and a Miss" bring up a record for speedy dancing. There was fast dancing in this burlesque. Bob Stariaman's comedy was his own and it tickled the crowd. So did the strutting of Fritzie While. Heights Jazz Hounds increased the pep throughout.

Waldron's Casino

Roxo Snyder started on his fourth and last week in Boston at Waldron's Casino yesterday afternoon. Roxo's burlesque program this week is entirely new, with all new comedy scenes and several new comedienne faces. The vaudeville features include Mealey and Hagenny, Marr and Black, and Beatrice Golden.

CLARA BOW GOES BACK TO WORK MARCH 1

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, International Newsreel
Copyright 1931 by International Newsreel Inc.

Los Angeles, Jan. 20—The town has been rife with the report that putting Sylvia Sydney into "City Streets" in place of Clara Bow means that Paramount has decided to dispense with their unfortunate little headliner. There has been one unhappy piece of publicity after another with poor Clara the victim. I talked with Ben Schulberg and he told me that Clara will be back March 1 to start on "Blind Mice," now being adapted by Zoe Akin.

"Clara is really all run down," said Mr. Schulberg. "She didn't have a long enough vacation before and this trial has just played havoc with her nerves. We are going to let her go away and rest until March 1 and get herself physically. We felt she wouldn't be able to do justice to 'City Streets' as we put Sylvia Sydney in her place."

"Blind Mice" will be given another title. It is a New York stage play bought for Clara's "City Streets" was to bring Clara back. It was to have been a new era for her. Let's hope "Blind Mice" will reestablish her and that Clara starts 1931 by not trusting the wrong people.

THE PRINCIPAL topic of conversation in Hollywood these days is Jack Warner's cousins of Paramount stars on the First National lot. If Jack had looked about to find a sensation in spring he couldn't have found one that would have created more excitement than his signing of Ruth Chatterton and William Powell. But you haven't heard anything yet, my children. Josef Von Sternberg, director of Marlene Dietrich, is the next in line.

This is not official but I hear it from a source that never has been inaccurate in its authenticity. I also hear that Marlene Dietrich will go with Von Sternberg.

IT WOULDN'T take a Solomon to know, after seeing Leslie Howard in "Outward Bound" that some producer was going to sign him and sign him quickly. He is one of the most finished actors we have ever seen on the screen besides having one of the most attractive personalities. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is the company this time that carried off the prize. Mr. Howard plays the leading character role in "Never the Man Dies" for them.

TRAGEDIENNE COMING HERE

Mme Marika Cotopouli, tragedienne from Athens, Greece, will come to Boston, the Athens of America, for a single performance of Sophocles' "Elektra" at Symphony Hall one week from tonight. She is making her first visit to America. She will be under the auspices of the Hellenic Association of Boston.

Great interest in this one performance in Boston has already been manifest and many of the part of lovers of the classic drama who yearn to see the world's foremost interpreter of the Greek drama in her native tongue.

JERRI SCORES AT HOWARD

Billy Arlington and Reggie White starred in the Mutual burlesque show at the Old Howard yesterday. As a special attraction was Jerri Howard McCauley, who scored another triumph.

FASHION TIPS FROM OPERA FAVORITE

Just as the modern woman lives two distinct lives—her daytime life and her evening life—so she should have two distinct types of costume—one dedicated to work the other reserved for the evening. This is the opinion of Maria Olszewska, famous contralto of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, which begins its annual fortnight of opera January 26.

"In the busy world we live in nowadays," said Mme. Olszewska, "women who have serious occupations in the daytime—and their number is constantly increasing—must divide their time, relegating pleasure to only a few hours of the day.

"In the daytime, woman generally thinks more about her career and her health than about pleasing men. Therefore, she must have practical clothes that she can put on in a hurry, and that are not going to impede her during her more serious hours.

"The same goes for her hair also. Every fall the hairdressers try to force back long hair; but theirs is a losing fight for the most part because of no longer having plenty of servants and time like our mothers. We cannot spend hours doing our hair, any more than we can lose valuable minutes of our working time dressing long skirts. Our clothes for work, and work must be neat and smart. That is all we ask of them."

FASHION NIGHT CLUB SHOW AT SCOLLAY

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

ELLISTON VINSON goes in for a novelty at the Scollay this week. This expert showman, manager of the Scollay, tops his efforts at quality footlight offerings with this introduction of an entire night club show. "Imported" from the Everglades club in Gotham, and put on with classy fashion indeed here. Mr. Vinson's effort becomes the more notable when it appears that the settings were made within a three-day limit at the local house.

Joan Abbott

Buddy Walker is the master of ceremonies, he is an oldtimer who can sing and step in lively manner. He also has the knack of getting the laughs, and the applause. The choruses are peppy, pretty and nicely costumed, the Everglades girls being helped by the Scollay ushers. The production is really better than the usual vaudeville program.

Among the many highlights are Mildred Andrews, "blues" singer and dancer, Geraldine, one of the best in her line of difficult body evolutions; Joan Abbott, clever in every way; Mignon and Dunstra, sparkling Spanish dancers. Others include the Darling Twins, Flo Lewis, Fid Gordon and Sonny O'Brien.

GOVERNOR ELY LAUDS AUTO SHOW

Gov. Joseph B. Ely, accompanied by his military staff, was the leading guest at the Boston Automobile Show at Mechanics Hall last night. Escorted by Chester I. Campbell director of the show, and J. H. McAlman, president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association the governor made a detailed inspection of the exhibit.

Although Wednesday has been the usual evening set aside for the governor to visit the show, Gov Ely discovered he would be unable to attend that evening.

President McAlman met the governor and his staff at the Copley Plaza and they were driven to Mechanics Hall and conducted to Director Campbell's office. Here the governor was introduced to a delegation of auto dealers, and about 8 p. m. the tour of the exhibition started.

CROWDS VIEW EXHIBIT

Every detail of the huge and lavish exhibit was noted by the governor. He received a big reception in every part of the hall and exchanged greetings with many as he passed along on his tour of inspection. At the conclusion of his trip the governor returned to Director Campbell's office and expressed the opinion that the show was a huge success.

A bigger day than ever is expected today at the show, according to Director Campbell. Despite swirling snow and pouring rain practically all yesterday, the beautifully decorated hall was thronged with visitors from early morning until late last night.

Boston and this section of New England must be thoroughly "auto conscious," according to Director Campbell, if they will brave weather such as prevailed yesterday. People from all parts of this section were on hand throughout the day and great interest was displayed in the new and improved models.

Sales are also going well, it is reported. This bears out the assertions of dealers and show backers, who insist that the show will prove that business is on the upgrade. Before the show opened last Saturday it was predicted that sales this year would surpass those of 1930 and 1929.

AUTO FOLKS AT BANQUET

Another feature occurred after the show had closed last night. This was the annual banquet and entertainment of the Automotive Boosters' Club of New England, which was held at the Hotel Statler. Hundreds of automobile men from all parts of New England, accompanied by their friends, gathered in the hotel ballroom to make merry.

Numerous theatrical entertainers were present to take part in the attractive program which had been prepared for the guests. There were variety acts presented during and after the banquet.

A larger number of guests than last year were present and the event was declared to be the most successful ever held. This is only the second Booster banquet which outsiders have attended, the first being held last year.

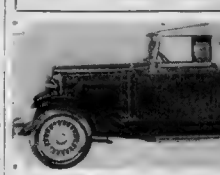
1931 Chevrolet Cabriolet



WIRE WHEELS and other features make the new 1931 Chevrolet Six Convertible Cabriolet a distinctive model.

WILLYS-KNIGHT WINS APPROVAL

The wide popularity of the Willys-Knight over a period of 15 years and the reputation established by its sleeve-valve engine still maintains, according to Herbert Fitch, district manager, who says that the public is showing greater interest in these Knight engined cars than ever and attributes this, not alone to the distinctive lines of beauty, but to the new low price range in which these 1931 cars are presented.

The Willys-Knight, with its sleeve-valve engine, has occupied a quality position in motordom for many years but this is the first time that the Toledo manufacturers has ever produced cars of such outstanding class and performance in the medium priced field

BUICK CATCHES EYE OF WOMEN

Women motorists are showing a greater interest in the new 1931 Buick line of straight eights in the automobile show this year than they have manifested in previous years. This increased interest is the result of the many features of the new car which have a distinct appeal to feminine taste, according to C. W. Churchill, general sales

But over and above the important element of dependability, the 1931 Buick straight eight is attracting the attention of the feminine motoring world by the beauty of its appearance, its modern coloring, rich appointments, luxurious comfort and perhaps above all other features, by the ease with which it is handled and driven

STRESS LAID BY CHEVROLET ON SERVICE

One of the noteworthy automotive developments in 1930 was the stress laid by manufacturers on extending to owners everywhere uniform and satisfactory service on an unusually broad and binding basis, says H. J. Walsh, Boston zone manager Chevrolet Co.

Bachrach Photo
H. J. Walsh

A major move along this line, which caused wide comment at the time and has proved its value as a good will builder after nearly a year of trial, was that of the Chevrolet Motor Company in announcing that under terms of the Chevrolet standard warranty, any Chevrolet owner experiencing defective material or workmanship could call on any authorized dealer in any part of the United States and have repairs made free of charge.

The plan, known as the Owner's Service Policy, is in effect at the 10,000 authorized Chevrolet service stations in the country

Every Chevrolet owner must receive his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated properly adjusted and operating efficiently from the first mile of driving

Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and lubrication adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of driving

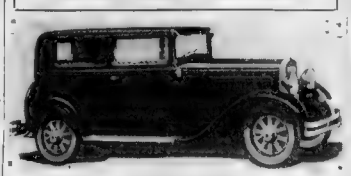
Every owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every thousand miles thereafter so long as the car is in operation

Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective either in workmanship or material

New Delivery Car by Graham-Paige

The Graham-Paige Motors Corporation has announced a new model delivery car of 1000 pounds capacity, with either the panel or screen body. In general construction and appearance, the new model follows closely the previous Paige commercial car designs, and its special features of design. The bodies are identical with those on the former model except that the length of the loading space has been increased

Essex Coach Roomier



ESSEX HAS ALWAYS OFFERED a big, roomy, stylish coach, a type which is popularized, and this year the Essex Super Six Coach is even more roomy, more comfortable, more stylish than ever. Motor and chassis refinements provide greater riding comfort.

FORD TRUCKS IN WIDE RANGE

An outstanding feature of the Ford exhibit in the Automobile Show here is the display of commercial cars and trucks. From the de luxe delivery, mounted on the passenger car chassis, to great lumbering trucks with extra-long wheel base and dual rear wheels the Ford offers a vehicle for practically every kind of hauling except the very heaviest.

Much of this extension in the usefulness of the Ford truck has taken place since the automobile show of last year. In that time the company has introduced a 157 inch wheelbase truck to supplement the 131½-inch Model AA and the 103½-inch Model A

DE VAUX HEADS CAR COMPANY

The De Vaux-Hall Motors Corporation is an independent company formed for the purpose of manufacturing and merchandising the De Vaux automobile a new six-cylinder motor car in the low price range

Local quarters are being maintained at the Hotel Statler, Room 542 where officials are conferring with dealers on the New England distribution.

The De Vaux-Hall Motors Corporation is completely financed and no stock will be offered for sale. Norman de Vaux, the president, was a former executive of General Motors.

ADVANTAGES IN MEDIUM BORE

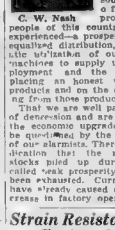
The big advantage of medium size bore design is the fact that pistons of the new Essex Super Six can be kept at minimum weight with respect to the work they have to do. The larger the bore the piston weight with respect to the work it can accomplish. This is important when it is realized that at the top and bottom of each stroke the piston comes to a dead stop, says C. H. Nutter, Hence Kimball Co

Consequently, its speed at the point is no miles per hour yet when the engine is operating at 3600 revolutions per minute, this piston must accelerate from rest, to 240 hour in 0.83 mile per hour in the short space of time of 1-70 of a second

NASH HEAD SEES BOOM COMING

By C. W. NASH
President Nash Motors Co.

American business is emerging purged and fortified, from its seventh serious sickness in the last 50 years. Its strength is coming back slowly on the wholesome old-fashioned diet of hard work, clear thinking and a public demand which has long since used up manufactured surpluses.



C. W. Nash

In my opinion the long, normal period ahead is going to work up to the highest and soundest degree of national prosperity based on equalized distribution, the system-wide utilization of our wonderful machines to supply universal employment and the necessity of placing an honest value on all products and on the shares accruing from those products

That we are well past the valley of depression and are definitely on the economic upgrade can hardly be questioned by the most gloomy of our alarmists. There is every indication that the manufactured stocks piled up during the so-called 'leak prosperity period have been exhausted. Current demands have already caused a general increase in factory operations.

Strain Resistance Featured on Reos

Combining the advantages of both the "composite" and the "structural steel" types of construction, bodies in the new Reo-Royale 8 give the greatest possible resistance to twist and strain, while providing stout safeguards against body rumble and rear and all squeaks and rattles, Reo engineers explain.

Scientists Hunt Meteor Remains

Paris, Jan. 20 (INS) Efforts to locate a huge meteor which flashed out of the sky and plowed into the earth with a thunderous sound somewhere near Tarbes Sunday night will be launched by a party of scientists, which has left for that region. Fragments of the astral body have already been located.

The Mystery of Geraldine

By ANTHONY ABBOTT

"No! Never!" cried Betty.

The mother and father nodded to each other? but said nothing.

"You are sure it is Geraldine's handwriting?" asked Colt.

"Yes, I saw Geraldine when she wrote that note. It was on the morning of Christmas Eve. It was my turn to get breakfast and she was sitting at the desk, writing. All at once she tore up her unfinished letter and threw the pieces into the waste basket. Then she wrote another letter and later mailed it."

No Answer

"But how does this fragment get way back there, behind the desk drawer?"

For this Betty had no answer and Thatcher Colt lifted the ornamental waste basket behind the escritoire.

"When did you empty this basket last?" he asked.

"This morning. I am sure those torn-up pieces were still in them —it hadn't been touched since last Saturday."

Thatcher Colt stalked to the telephone, fixed on the wall of the little entrance corridor and called the switchboard operator in the Esplanade lobby.

"Please tell the janitor to come up to Apartment 4D at once. Tell him the police want to see him."

While he was waiting Thatcher Colt stood moodily in the center of the living room, the fragment of paper in his hand, while his eyes studied the inked letters with brooding interest.

Familiar with the symptoms of his manner, I watched him eagerly. Something had occurred to him that we had not noticed.

Slowly he turned and walked over to the desk, sat down, studied a memorandum Betty had left there, then lifted the desk fountain pen from its swivel holder and began to write on a blank sheet of note paper lying near his hand.

What he was writing I could not see. It was only a short sentence, and, having put down his pen, he shoved the paper from him, regarded it, frowningly, as if expecting it at any moment to become animated and perform a trick for him

Perhaps three minutes of utter silence passed while he watched that piece of paper. Then he lifted it and held it close to his eyes, slanting the paper to an oblique position, looking sharply askance at his own writing, and then comparing it with the torn fragment.

"How long have you been using this kind of ink, Betty?" he asked.

"We have a bottle of it—I think we've had it at least a month."

"Any other ink in the apartment?"

Colt Puzzled

"Think carefully and tell me," he said, "did Geraldine have a special ink bottle of her own?"

"No, sir. Is there anything wrong with that ink?"

Thatcher Colt shrugged.

"I don't know. But I am puzzled at one circumstance. The ink with which I have just written is not the same ink with which Geraldine Foster wrote that note, although both are purple. Geraldine's handwriting seems to me to be in Waterman's ink—certainly it is different from the fluid now in this fountain pen—the metallic glisten of this dried writing of mine shows conclusively that I wrote with what is known as Shaeffer's 'Skrip'—they call it 'washable purple.'"

Without speaking, Betty turned to a closet and came back almost instantly with a bottle of ink in her hand

"How amazing" she exclaimed, "that is exactly the name on the label—Skrip!"

Thatcher Colt smiled grimly

"That isn't the amazing part," he said. "What is truly extraordinary is that these notes are written in different ink but with the same pen."

"What would that mean?" Mr. Colt?"

FANNING with GEORGE UNDERWOOD

OUR NELL AIN'T BEING TREATED RIGHT, MATIES

A LITTLE SOFT MUSIC, perfessor. It's a sad tale. They ain't treatin' our Nell Sharkey right. Saying a lot of mean things about her. Turnin' her out in the snow and cold and wind and not lettin' her in to warm herself by the fight fireside at all. When all is said and done she's been a purty good gal—a purty good gal. It's a pesky shame the way the boys have turned her down and are flirtin around with that Stribling hussy they call the Georgia Rose, and that Schmeling fraulein from Unter den Linden, and the big strapping Italian senorita, Mona Lisa Carnera. No, they're not treatin' Nell Sharkey right at all.

Coming out of it we can't quite understand how some of our brother boxing discussionians arrive at their conclusions. All of 'em, even including a son of an ex-gyrene flat himself to be top heel fighter of the lot. Yet, in the same breath, they declare he is the poorest attraction. How do they get that way?

Sharkey a weaker attraction than Young Stribling?

Did Willie the Clutch ever give you a thrill?

Did you ever see Stribling in any encounter in which he wasn't clutching, wrestling, mauling, pushing like a lonshoreman, hugging like a June bride?

Did you ever see Young Stribling box one round without being able to tell about what was going to take place in the next 10 or 15?

STRIBLING'S SOFT JAWED CHAUFFEUR

OF COURSE, Hugging Willie knocked out a few setups. He used to have his own chauffeur move on about of him. The King of the Canebreaks knocked out that same chauffeur under more names than there are in the city directory.

What did Wearying Willie do against regular Righters? He couldn't even. He wrestled 'em. All any fan suffering from insomnia has to do is to park himself in any ringside anytime Young Stribling eases himself through the ropes. Wearying Willie will be a swell friend a-bowling for his Chinese tobacco to sleep.

Yet some of you folks think that Willie Clutch is a better boy. Offer all odds on than the guy that's been out and let them all white back on green the gob who sent 1,200 down in Six hings a row. Jimmy can be used in a package.

The kind of setups Sharkey fed up was Harry Wills, who had the rest of the pugs so scared they were afraid to be in the same county with 'him.

After Sharkey licked Wills the boys discovered the Brown Panther was a toothless old Tom Cat. That you notice they discovered the truth about Ol' Hay AFTER the Sharkey fight NOT BEFORE.

Sharkey fought giant George Godfrey when none else would take him on—on this level.

In all Jack Sharkey's ring career the Boston Sailorman barred no one; took them all in his stride and green, did no quibbling or bargaining on purse, place or referee.

Who oozed more color than the terrible Sharkey man? Who inspired more likes and dislikes? Who show more appeal than the Boston Man from Austria, the Lochinvar from Faith, the Glamorous Gob, the Shrinking Violet of Chesterfield, etc., and ilterim forever and forever, until death do us part?

AW STOP YOUR BIDDING, CLARENCE

Yet still the boy could beat Young Stribling, who never gave the fans a single thrill, who never caused anyone's heart to beat a beta. The faster can coax more jackrabbit into the box office window than can the terrible Sharkey went. Aw, stop your kidding, Clarence.

Pauline can Schmeisling. A little later maybe Carnera will but not now.

If Young Stribling or Schmeling or Carnera thought they could whip Sharkey, they would be fall ing all over themselves to get it. Sharkey licked Stribling once and Stribling knows Sharkey can do it again. Even the best cubbed and Frader-cutthroat couldn't make Schmeling forget the licking Sharkey was good for. One effort to jumped into that car bowl Carnera's wife, astute shrewd landsman Frank Battaglia, put Carnera giant against such a smart boxer-hard hitting fighter as Jack Sharkey is now.

The truth of the matter is that Jack Sharkey is hucking a road deck. That is as plain as the nose on your face. The powers that be do have turned Jack Sharkey out the cold will have a mighty hard time camouflaging it.

You can't fool all of the suckers all of the time, though some of them

Pounds Roll Off Ruth as He Trains for Coming Season

Despite the snow, the sloppy streets and the sniffles, spring must be just around the corner. And if you don't believe it gaze upon the photos of George Herman Ruth going through his daily dozen at Artie McGovern's gymnasium in New York—getting ready for the flight south.

When Babe goes to Artie's gym and starts dieting and training it is the surest indication of the coming of the baseball season.

Babe started these annual anti-overfloods were five years ago. Just previous to that time he was more or less "baseball's playboy." But he saw the handwriting on the wall and mended his ways. On December 17, 1925, Babe went to Artie McGovern with 256 pounds on his huge frame and a waistline measuring 38½ inches. He was completely out of shape.

Babe Plans to Be in Perfect Trim

But he worked hard, cubed a tremendous amount and topped that mark unless he put on weight. He was down to 211 at the beginning of the training period under McGovern's supervision, he will weigh but 216 pounds and his waistline will be the same as it was when he was in perfect trim.

Babe goes through a rather tough line with the word the medicine ball boxing and calisthenics and he will be employed to perform exercises that will help him to get rid of the surplus fat.

Persistence is going a great pace in the national cup competition, its most recent victims including New Bedford and Pawtucket.

Instead of the customary eleven positions on the side the teams will line up one goalie, one fullback, two halfbacks and three forwards.

Angry, winner of the principal number on opening day shouldered top weight and made it score two in a row when he ran off first in the hunt to win the $10,000 handicap at six furlongs.

INDOOR SOCCER OPENS FEB. 5

The official opening of seven-a-side indoor soccer will be Feb. 5 when Boston College and Dartmouth's dance Carnival crews supply the opposition. Robert MacCulloch, manager of the Hub club, has accepted the Hub invitation and promised to field his strongest seven.

The players will wear sneakers instead of the customary soccer shoes as the playing surface will be concrete. A ball lighter than the regulation weight and padded with felt will be employed to prevent possible the [illegible] accidents.

SHARPE TO LEAD ALABAMA

Tuscaloosa, Ala. (AP)—Joe Sharpe has a man-sized pair of shoes to fill in his leadership of the University of Alabama football team in 1931.

Chosen captain of the Crimson Tide for next season, Sharpe succeeds "Footz" Clement, who led the 1930 edition to another Southern Conference championship and a victory in the Rose Bowl.

Thirteen letter men will be lost to the team by graduation in June, and a new backfield has already succeeded Wallace Wade who has guided the Tide's destinies for the past eight years.

But Sharpe is not afraid of hard work. He knows how to take the knocks and grimly come back for more when his cause is just.

Nadeau Is Beaten by Andy Callahan

New Bedford, Jan. 20—Andy Callahan of Lawrence, New England amateur champion, stopped Lester Nadeau, lightweight champion of New Hampshire, at the Bristol Arena in the fifth round. Al of Nadeau was floored before he Bouncd sent him to his corner.

Jimmy Dupre of South Boston won a decision from Jimmy Mack of Boston. Frankie Callahan of Ball River stopped Jimmy Reese in two rounds, and Tommy Costa of this city beat Eddie Wandt in a six-rounder.

The Boston Tigers will journey to Springfield determined to win their first victory over Frank Calvello's league-leading Indians tomorrow night. Four times so far the Tigers and the Springfielders have met, with Boston losing each time. Springfield is the only team the Tigers haven't beaten at least once this year.

DAMON RUNYON Says

(Copyright, 1931, Universal Service, Inc.)

Miami, Fla., Jan. 20—After several days of florid speech and furious gesticulation, the ubiquitous Dr. J. Leo McKernan, otherwise Jack Kearns, has shaken the sands of Miami Beach from his sport shoes, and headed north.

He came here to see about a fight between his middleweight champion, Mickey Walker, and Jack Sharkey. The latter had been much agitated about meeting Walker, by Mr. G. B. K. Carter, Miami Beach sportsman, and had replied that he would be pleased to take on Mickey for $100,000, the old familiar Sharkey figure.

So Dr Kearns hastened to these scenes to see if he could locate Mr. Carter. A short time had that young wag take the doctor to Greenland nowadays, things not being what they used to be. He seemed to have no idea that Mr. Carter might put up the small deposit required by Sharkey, but Mr. Carter quickly lashbeed the doctor's mind on that thought.

Mr. Carter has a new drug store on Miami Beach, built by himself and the late George Fry Rickard. I met Mr. Carter in the store, my first brought Rickard into Florida.

Mr. Carter told the doctor that the fight talk was at his disposal, and that the doctor could go ahead and promote his fight there or practically any terms he desired, as far as Mr. Carter was concerned, but as for putting up a hundred grand or any part thereof—well, no, not this week, anyway.

When it dawned on the doctor that there was no ammunition that he might put to the enemy on call, he shuddered slightly, and complained of the cold, although it was very warm. Then he shaded his hat, and a train almost simultaneously, and fled, chattering to himself as he departed. He said he was going to Chicago.

Sharkey-Walker Fight in Florida Unlikely

Per onality, I would can idea Sharkey dead cheap at Dempsey to open Miami Beach, especially in the East, claiming that Jeannette would be willing to [illegible] but you couldn't pay that kind of money for the semi match in Florida this season, and I doubt if you could pay it anywhere else and hope to make a new profit.

There is a possibility that Mr. Carter may now lease his dog track to Frank J. Brien for the Primo Carnera-Jimmy Maloney match, which is signed and sealed for March 4. It seems to me that this match on his own book, and so far has been unable to make a deal with the Madison Square Garden Corporation for the Arena in Miami where Sharkey met old Phil the Fainter last year.

'SONNY' GHOICE OVER WYKOFF

By RINGSIDE

Gus Sonnenberg has been installed a slight favorite for his finish wrestling bout with Lee Wykoff, former University of St. Louis star, which will be staged on Thursday night at the Arena under the direction of Paul Rowser.

It will be Sonny's first start in the East since he lost his title to Ed. George in a bout at Los Angeles.

Wykoff will make Sonny step, as he is one of the best of the younger generation of wrestlers. He has shown to advantage in all of his Boston matches and looks as if he is going to blast his way to the heights in the mat game.

Everett Marshall, third Pacific Coast sensation, will tackle Joe "Ball" Komar, while Farmer George McLeod will have Pat McGill as an opponent.

Exhibition Bouts to Put Max in Shape

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—An 11 weeks exhibition campaign of the South Stribling and Maxie Weiss has been arranged for Max Schmeling, to put the heavyweight champion in condition for his bout with Jack Sharkey (Young) Stribling of Macon will appear in June somewhere in the mid-west.

In most of the cities Schmeling will box each night with sparring partners in conjunction with regularly scheduled fight shows.

In other, particularly in Texas, he will make personal appearances and act as referee at wrestling matches. He also will make a hurried trip to Havana for one exhibition.

Police Escort Boston Wrestler to Hotel

Davenport, Ia., Jan. 19 (AP)—Referee Dale Hentchen having read newspaper accounts of the two Zeke Dempsey-Emil Poffo decisionat performers, knocked down George Mack of Boston, who protested a decision in favor of a fall to Karl Zbyszko of New York at a joint match tonight.

Garden Seeks O. K. on Maloney-Risko Go

Billy Ames, matchmaker of the Boston Garden, flies to New York today on the N. Y. plane from the Boston airport, on a trip which is reported will result in getting the New York Boxing Commission to lift its suspension of Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight. The Boston Garden wants Maloney to fight Johnny Risko of Cleveland at the Boston Garden on Feb. 3.

No Funds, Local Sextet Calls Off Journey to Poland

Due to the lack of funds, the Boston Hockey Club was today forced to cancel its proposed trip to Poland for an international series of hockey games with amateur sextets of European nations.

The plans were made for departure from New York tomorrow night. Twelve players with Manager Walter Brown were booked for passage and passports had been arranged for.

The trip was to consume almost two months and the Hockey Club was to be the official representative of the United States, having been selected some time ago by the A. A. U.

Expenditures were to total $2500 and yesterday the fund had reached the sum of $1000. With today the last for further collections and subscriptions and with no money in sight it was finally decided to cancel the tour.

The Boston Hockey Club was scheduled to meet Harvard in the Garden tomorrow night. The game was ended all because the local puckstrers seemed quite sure of making their European journey. No [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

STUDENTS ARE SUPPORTING MOVEMENT

The demand of immediate resumption of athletic relations between Harvard and Princeton by undergraduate leaders and sport captains at Princeton found hearty support among the Harvard student body today.

Although William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, would make no official statement on the Tiger proposal, it is known that he is anxious to see Harvard and Princeton resume athletic rivalry.

Bingham's silence at this time is said to be due to the fact that no official action has been taken at Princeton as yet. As soon as Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the board of athletic control, gives a decision on the petition presented to him by Princeton undergraduate leaders, Bingham will probably take official action for Harvard.

Harvard sport captains are unanimously in favor of the plan for renewed rivalry between the two institutions.

Barry Wood, captain-elect of the Harvard football team, Eddie Mahoney, captain of the baseball team, Vernon Munroe, track leader, Tommy Farrell, basketball leader, and Dick Aldrich, captain of cross country at Harvard, all stated that they would like to see Harvard and Princeton renew sport relations.

The Harvard Crimson, Harvard's undergraduate publication strongly urged the Princeton proposal. Intercollegiate competition in general is looked upon favorably in Cambridge.

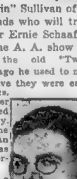
In view of all this, the Harvard athletic officials will undoubtedly take steps toward cementing relations which have been broken since 1927.

Jack "Twin" Sullivan to Help Train Dick Daniels

By JACK CONWAY

Jack "Twin" Sullivan of Cambridge has been added to the list of master minds who will try to tell Dick Daniels of Minneapolis how to plaster Ernie Schaaf when they battle in a 10-round bout at the Argonne A. A. show at the Arena on next Monday night.

Remember the old "Twin"? Twenty years ago he used to make his rivals believe they were eating boxing gloves. With brother Mike, he toured the country. They made the name Sullivan as famous as did the immortal John L.



Jack Conway

The same Sharkey who was once coached by Sullivan is in the Schaaf camp. Jack has been coaching Schaaf for two months. He was an important factor in Ernie's win over Max Baer in New York recently.

On Friday night Schaaf will tackle Jimmy Braddock in Madison Square Garden, New York. He will return to the Hub immediately after his meeting with Braddock so as to be ready for his whirl with Daniels.

Father Bill Cuddy will welcome the amateur ring stars from Norway, Belgium and Ireland when they arrive in New York on Thursday aboard the S. S. Milwaukee. It was largely through the efforts of Cuddy that arrangements were made for the foreign stars to show here.

Diamond Belt Bouts at Arena on Saturday

The third in the series of diamond belt boxing bouts will be staged at the Arena on Saturday night under the direction of the Irish-American A. C. Jim Barry says there will be contests at 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and Hudson.

The series of bouts held so far have been productive of some real ring competition. It is expected that there will be 40 bouts on Saturday night.

Valha and Santos at Salem Tonight

Horatio Valha of Gloucester and Patsy Santos of Lynn will collide in a 10-round bout at the Salem A. A. of Salem tonight. This tussle was originally carded for last night, but was postponed until this evening on account of the poor weather conditions.

Valha and Santos have been winning regularly in North Shore rings. They have proved themselves to be aggressive, hard-hitting youngsters.

But Silva will feature local boys in his preliminary card.

Eddie Mack Special Making Its Bookings

Eddie Mack says 50 reservations have already been made for his "Miami Special." Mack declares his special will leave Boston on February 27 or 28, and return here on March 7. The fans will have an opportunity to witness the Maloney-Carrera ten-round bout at the Miami Beach Kennel Track on March 5, and also take a peek at the Florida derby which will be held at the Hialeah track just outside of Miami on March 7.

Mack announces that he has engaged the Colored Porters' Jazz Band for the trip.

Yale Crew to Race Columbia and Penn

New York, Jan. 20—The return of Yale to the Harlem river to meet Columbia and Pennsylvania in the Blackwell Cup regatta, May 2, features Columbia's 1931 varsity rowing schedule.

Columbia's schedule is so calls for dual meets on the Harlem with the Navy and Massachusetts Institute of Technology on April 18 and May 16, respectively. The Lions again will row against Princeton and Pennsylvania in the Childs' Cup race on Lake Carnegie, Princeton, N. J., May 30, and will compete in the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson.

MAY LEGALIZE BETTING IN R. I.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 20—Prospects of passing a bill legalizing the pari mutuel system of betting at horse races in Rhode Island are exceptionally bright, according to members of the General Assembly.

If such a measure passes, sponsors assert that a race track, one of the finest in the United States, will be built in Portsmouth near the Portsmouth end of the Mount Hope bridge.

For many years the late Fletcher Lawton, member of the General Assembly from Newport tried to have such a bill passed but each year he was blocked by elements opposed to legalizing betting.

In Newport it is said that nearly a million dollars will be invested in the track and that the racing season will cover a period of five weeks. As the track will be within four miles of Newport that city will reap the business benefits that will accrue.

52-Year-Old Billiard Player Beats Star

Chicago, Jan. 20 (INS)—Frank S. Scoville of Buffalo, competing in his first world's championship billiard match at the age of 52, was being acclaimed today for his feat in upsetting Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., in the opening match of the three-cushion tournament here.

Scoville won by a score of 50 to 35 in 55 innings. His defeat of the champion threw a large crowd of spectators into a turmoil.

Since the Massachusetts Golf Association's new regime came into power, there has developed a strong feeling between the local organization and the United States Golf Association.

Until recently, the Massachusetts Golf Association and the parent body had been at loggerheads, occasionally arriving at such a pitch as to threaten a break. With the advent of the new regime, headed by President Talbot C. Chase, the current of alleged discontent began to disappear and now the best of feeling exists between these bodies.

The U. S. G. A. has been keeping the M. G. A. in close touch with the various golf issues they have been discussing and legislating for or against. Pres. Chase has been appointed by the U. S. G. A. to a committee on sectional affairs, whose duties will be to make a thorough study of the conditions both amateur and professional in New England.

Believing that New England had not been thoroughly informed as to the actions taken during the recent United States Golf Association annual meeting, Herbert Jaques, of The Country Club, who is the New England delegate, took the trouble and time to explain in detail the decisions and their reasons in a long letter to Pres. Chase.

"Casey Says Football Character Builder

"There has been a great deal of talk in some circles about over emphasis in football of late," he said, "but when one hears from the players themselves, what they get out of it and what it does for them, opinion is to the contrary it is assuredly a worthwhile sport."

A Message Every Man Should Read

Until...

He went to Thomas'

TOM THOMPSON* was not vain, nor was he conceited about his personal appearance. He found that his lack of hair actually hindered his business progress. Not infrequently would he be fully prepared to make a masterful sales presentation to a prospective customer only to be balked when he removed his hat and revealed his bald head. Friends "wise-cracked" about it and although new acquaintances and business prospects did not boldly mention it, Tom knew they were thinking, "Too bad he had to take off his hat—he looked so much younger with it on."

In Tom's case baldness actually cost him money. No matter how forceful were his sales arguments, he could not keep his customer's eyes off his bald head. Finally he came to The Thomas', was accepted for treatment after a scientific scalp examination and now a growth of new hair covers his scalp in a natural manner. Six Months Enough to Know If You Love

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Six months ago I met a young man in whom I am very much interested. I have seen him four nights a week during a period of six months. He has asked me to marry him, and I told him I would. A week ago last Saturday he called up and said he would be an hour late. Since then I have not seen him, but received two letters from him from New York and we would get married there. Please give me some advice what to do. Should or should I not marry him?

DOLORES B.

Dear Dolore, B. Six months could be long enough for you to find out whether you want to marry this young man. You have told me anything about him, so I am not in a position to say whether or not you should marry him. Just because he was rather unexpectedly in New York is no reason for breaking an engagement. If he did not mean business, he would not put a proposal of marriage in writing.

Beatrice Fairfax

Have a Little Patience

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 18 and in love with a boy, 21, who I am sure loves me. A few nights ago at a party we had a slight disagreement. He wrote me a very heartbreaking letter telling me that I could see him again. I am very lonely and was told by one of his friends he is the same. I am thinking of going in training to be a nurse in Brooklyn. Shall I go? Will you please try and help me to decide what I should do. LONELY

Dear Lonely—When you're in the midst of a heartbreaking affair it is hard to be detached and impartial, but I wouldn't rush into training on that account if I were you. I'm sure everything will come out all right if you only have a little patience. Why don't some of these well-meaning friends try to patch things up for you if your own pride and ego won't let you come together?

Pay the Price

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been reading your column and thought that you might be able to help me. A while back I went with a fellow for several weeks. I mentioned to a few of my closest girl friends that I had met a moneyed boy friend. Perhaps I bragged. One night he broke a date with me and I never heard from him. I see him now at a distance. He has never come near or called me up to say why he broke the date. I have told bad to think that I said anything about his money because it really was he I liked. Did one of my friends tell him what I had been saying or what? I have often wondered. What shall I do? Shall I go to him and find out what is the matter?

HOPING.

Dear Hoping—I'm afraid you'd have to pay the price for your bad taste and poor breeding. One never brags about one's friends over much, and especially about such things as money, which would certainly lead him to think that was all you cared about. He will never believe you now, I fear, and the best thing to do is remain to forget him and do better next time. People with money are very touchy on that point and fear everyone.

What's in Fashion?

Costume-Like Sweaters and Skirts

FASHIONABLE SWEATER COSTUMES

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—Have you noticed how much sweaters are being worn again? For they are in fashion again.

A while ago they were out of fashion—and far out. And one reason was because with all this femininity and individuality that's come into the mode, nobody wanted to be clothed in a straight, shapeless sack . . . such as all sweaters were.

And one reason sweaters are in fashion again is because they're no longer all straight, shapeless sacks. In fact, if it weren't that they're knitted you'd be hard put to tell them apart from blouses.

Have Dress Details

They have dress-like details, just as fashionable blouses do. They have yoke effects, crushed girdles, bows, belts, collars and cuffs—even collars of lingerie materials.

They're shaped like blouses, too—made to tuck in or to tie at the waistline like the very short overblouse, or belted and extending below the waistline like the peplum type overblouse.

Of course we don't mean that the straight sweater is entirely out of the fashion picture. It isn't. But it's three newer, more blouse-like ones that are worn now with skirts and jackets just as a blouse would be worn.

We've said three of them sketched, just to give you a general idea of how sweaters and up-to-date looking they are.

Yoke Top

The blouse-like features of the sweater at the left are the yoke top and the flat scarf neckline. It's either a tuck-in—worn inside the skirt band—or short overblouse.

The next sweater has a soft girdle that ties round at the side. And this is a short overblouse worn outside the skirt band but so short it has the effect of a tuck-in.

And the third one is an overblouse sweater worn with a vestee or a lingerie collar attached at the neckline. And it is belted to give it the appearance of a peplum blouse.

Worn with Separate Skirts

What about the skirts these sweaters are worn with? Well—fashionable separate skirts aren't very different from the skirts of dresses or jacket costumes. There's nothing about them to mark them as an "extra" skirt. And when they're combined with these blouse-like sweaters you have the effect of an ensemble? costume

We've shown the yoke top sweater with a yoke top skirt. And yoke tops on skirts are a fine fashion in dress skirts or suit skirts. The pleats in the front give the fullness over fashionable skirt hips. And keeps the sides of the silhouette straight.

Don't Make Answer 'Snappy'

By MRS. BEECKMAN.

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

1—I am 15 years old and I attend a dancing school in the evening. After the lesson we are allowed to dance with whoever we wish. Many boys ask me to dance. What would be the nice thing to say when I know that I am not a good dancer? Would they like it if I could say "You'll be actsy for this. Something snappy. Or do you think that sounds impolite?

2—After the dance when the young man escorts you to a seat and thanks you for the dance what is the polite informal reply? Could I say nothing, as I do not like to say the pleasure was all mine, as I am so young, and I know nothing else to say.

1—No, we can't allow you to say anything to the young man about your not dancing well. You know if you are not good enough, though you make it "snappy"—in this thought may "get into your feet" and of course then you won't be able ever to dance well. Instead of thinking so much about apologizing for your not dancing well, why not get busy and learn to dance well?

2—Say something very simple, and very simply, and be very natural. Something that will indicate that you, too, enjoyed the dance in fact just say that "I enjoyed the dance so much, thank" or, "That was a delightful dance, Tom, and I enjoyed every minute of it."

Introductions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—When introducing a young man to my husband and some friends should I introduce my husband first, or the ladies who are in the party?

2—Should I introduce other men to my husband, or should I introduce him to other men? Please tell me just how to make this introduction.

3—When my husband brings a friend home and I have friends there, should he introduce his wife to the friend with him first, or should he introduce the friends I have to his friends first, and then introduce me, his wife, last?

1—First present your husband to the ladies in the group, and then introduce him to the other gentleman.

2—The infernal phrase "this is," the young man so often uses for family introductions, is appropriate in this kind of introduction. For instance, "Mr. Warren, this is my husband," or "Fred, this is Mr. Warren," or, simply, "Mr. Warren, my husband."

3—He should first introduce the man to you, since you are the hostess in the house. Then he, or you, introduce this man guest to the women, your guests.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

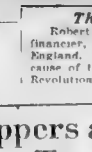
Peppers and Stuffing to Tempt Taste

By MARTHA LEE

Organizer and Conductor of New England's Largest Homemakers' Club of Over 17,000

"HAVE YOU any ideas for new stuffing for peppers?" demanded Betty the Bride during her weekly call at 3.

With a pop go Tom's stuffed peppers, and I use the left over ones for lunch soon with gravy or undiluted tomato soup, but we are getting tired of the same old rice and chopped meat stuffings.



Martha Lee

TOMATO STUFFING FOR PEPPERS

Melt 2 tbsp. butter. Add 2 tbsp. flour. Stir until smooth. Add 1 c. of tomato pulp drained from its juice, ½ c. of bread crumbs and 1 c. of soup stock or hot water in which a bouillon cube has been dissolved. Season to taste with salt, paprika, onion salt or juice and a dash of cayenne. Cook until smooth and thick. Fill the peppers (which have been parboiled for 5 minutes) over with well-buttered crumbs and bake 1 hour.

Chicken stuffing can be made by substituting chopped chicken or other meat for the tomato pulp, and macaroni makes another good stuffing. One c. of macaroni, mixed with ¼ c. of finely chopped onion, 2 tbsp. of pimiento finely chopped, 2 tbsp. of melted butter and 4 tbsp. of finely chopped mushrooms, is a filling hard to beat. Don't forget to season well with salt and pepper.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

REMOVAL OF INK STAINS

The Onaite and present it is a bleach and is especially good for removal of stains from white linens cotton, bath fabrics, etc. Pour hot juice over stain, then wash in clear water. Danger of Influenza Mounts

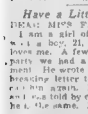
Be Cautious With Common Colds

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

MANY GERMS, some of them capable of causing disease, are carried by the hands. Influenza is one such. In times of epidemic of colds and influenza, if more care on the part of the public were exercised, there would be less danger from these infectious diseases.



Dr. Copeland

Just what germ causes influenza and what is its remedy, are questions which have not been settled yet. But one thing we do know. It is largely hand-borne.

We know there are two general types of dangerous germs. The first are those which invade the tissues and live and multiply inside them. The other are those germs that gain admission to the body and then produce poisons which get into the bloodstream and are carried throughout the system.

It would seem that the influenza germ is one of the latter type for the reason that its effects are felt so generally in the system. There is no distance, headache, pain in the back, sore eyes and other symptoms.

No matter how severe the type of influenza in a given epidemic, the patient rarely dies from the disease if in the course it takes, particularly of pneumonia, or pleurisy, that is likely to prove serious. In other words, influenza may prove fatal in the second involvement of the body system. That is the reason why the danger from influenza or other epidemic colds is not attributed by a physician or the symptoms of the disease. Should go in a sense to a business of getting well. When you do this, the other infections have a good opportunity to engraft themselves upon your system.

When colds and influenza are prevalent avoid kissing your family, for by this means they may be passed on to others your own unsuspected infection. Everyone should wash the hands frequently and attend carefully to the toilet of the mouth and nose. All children should be taught these things.

An infectious patient should be isolated from others. The bedding and utensils used by the patient such as dishes and silver, should be thoroughly boiled after use. Everything touched by the sick person, bedding, towels and clothing should be cleaned thoroughly before being used by another person.

Answers to Health Queries

MISS M. Q.—What will remove blackheads?

A.—Correct the diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food.

A. E. Q.—Is there and connection between the nose and the heart—that is, if one cannot breathe through the left nostril would it in any way affect the heart action or any other part of the body?

A.—Improper breathing or insufficient oxygen naturally affects the entire system. If the left nostril is clogged it naturally makes far more difficult breathing which may or may not have further results, depending upon the conditions underlying the case. Have the nose properly examined and attended to.

TIGER HEART

By Robert Terry Shannon

"RIGHT NOW you feel terribly disappointed—but, actually, I don't think you love me at all. I like you, also—but I think we both took love too much for granted. We can at least be friends, always."

He struggled to retain his composure. "I believe you mean that!"

"But I won't release you!"

She almost smiled at his childishness, but she had no heart to hurt him.

"Don't be foolish, Jim. I've been sleeping, but now I'm awake. And I'm going to be driven into a marriage because of my silly pride in refusing to call it off. And it doesn't mean we have to give each other up. We'll stay friends, be a good sport, Jim.

You wouldn't want me to marry you if I decided at the last minute I didn't love you."

"It's not fair, and you know it isn't," he protested.

"All right—have it your own way. It's not fair and I'm acting like a beast, but we're not going to be married tomorrow."

"You'll change your mind in the morning," he predicted, miserably. "I can't believe my own ears when you talk this way—"

I don't change my mind that easily Jim. What you wanted of him! Come on boy, buck up and take it all like a man. Drop over to the house tomorrow morning if you like, and we'll have a talk. I know you're all shot over this, and so am I, but it's the best way."

"I refuse to look upon that as fina," he stated. "It's merely a postponement if you stick to your crazy decision. If it's a matter of money that you want your skirt to have, I agree to settle with her on some reasonable terms if you insist."

It's not money; it's what lies behind money, Jim. Now go home like me gentlefolk and goodby and don't worry about it any more. You must be sensible."

MISS CLARA FROST,

Dickie's sister was giving him a piece of bread. She put butter on it and said:

Sister: Now what do you say?

CLARA WAGNER,
280 Harvard st., Medford.

He leaned forward and kissed him. This she knew, was the end of their romance. There was much that was lovable in Jim Tracy, but as awakened she should not let that be held as much of weight and weakness that would make life unbearable for she and Jim in a diminished degree. When he had vegetated in her, she realized was not her heart but her money. And even for that she could scarcely forgive him. Looking back, she could scarcely believe that she had ever been so self-deceived that she really loved Jim Tracy.

But Rome, she slipped into the house and waited for dawn. Without undressing, she sat in a deep comfortable chair in her own bedroom and gradually a little troubled sleep closed her eyes.

Morning broke for Connie and she faced the beginning of a new, distressful day. So taut was her spirit that she felt little physical depression from the strain she had been under and the consequent loss of sleep. A shower bath and change of clothes completely restored her active vitality.

Not even the servants in the house were awake. Before anyone was astir, Connie went to her mother's room. She began by breaking the news that she was not going to marry Jim Tracy today as originally planned, but a grim trait in her character that made her face the difficulty without hesitation.

She Was Surprised

She was surprised, however, at her mother's steadfast acceptance of the fact. Remarkably, there were no reproaches nor signs of excited protest.

"You know your own mind best, Connie," her mother said, with a homely kind of wisdom. "If you have discovered at the last minute that you don't love Jim and that you foresee lifelong unhappiness, you're quite right in refusing to marry."

"Nonsense. What do you care about what people will say? You have to live our own life, child. Not even your mother has any right to dictate to you. I've got lots old, Connie, and in a few years I won't be with you any more. I don't want to go and leave you married to the wrong man. If there is the slightest doubt in your heart—I think you are absolutely right. You can thank your lucky stars you caught yourself in time."

"But it seems an awful thing to do to Jim," Connie said. "I know how it hurts and humiliates him, and—"

"Have you told him yet?"

"Yes we've each other's call last night after you went to bed mother."

For the present, Connie withheld the story of her flying trip in New York. Indeed, she had given her mother scarcely any reason at all for breaking the engagement, merely, she had stated, now at the last, she had decided that she couldn't marry Jim. "He seemed awfully broken up about it, mother."

"Jim is a dear boy," her mother said, "and I hate to see him hurt—but he'll get over it. You're saving him, as well as yourself, from a great mistake."

Mrs. Calvert arose immediately and stood over Connie with pleasant responsibility of notifying the invited guests that the wedding was postponed. Somehow, though, was a polite fiction, and Connie marveled at her mother's ease in making the inadvertent apologies. Jim Tracy called up eagerly. Connie talked to him briefly, told him that had put the undertaking last decision and craved off his desire to come over and resolve his breakings.

"Drop over some time in the next two or three days, Jim," she told him. "You're always welcome, but I want to be alone today."

WHEN I MAKE doughnuts I add to my egg and sugar after it is well beaten 1 tbsp. of boiled squash and beat again. Use with any good recipe. It adds both color and a better flavor.

Not original with me, but very good. Try grapefruit juice for your bran muffins also bran cookies, in place of sour milk. We consider it as good if not a little better.

(I got this from an old cook book published in 1877.)—Mrs. Peaster parie until it is done boiling in an iron vessel, then mix it half and half with Indian meal. The rats love to nibble this and it sets in their stomachs and kills them without danger of the poison.—Mrs. Annie S. Woodman, box 124, Byfield, Mass.

BANANA CUP CAKES.

Cream together 2 tbs. butter and 1 cup powdered sugar. Add 1 egg and the mashed pulp of fruit. Sift 1 cup flour and 1 tsp. baking powder. Mix well with a bit smaller than for biscuits, and stir to rise for 20 minutes, then spoon separately on pan. Bake in moderate oven 15 minutes.—Mrs. Edith Bacon, 305 Abbott st., Roxbury, Mass.

For those who received new sandwich toasters and griddle for Christmas I have two recipes that I have never try to coax a sandwich made with mayonnaise or oil will turn back to its fatty stores.

Now for a suggestion which I hope many women will try. Take your own "Martha Lee's One-Hour Roll" recipe which we are all so thankful for, and make the rolls a bit smaller than for biscuits, and allow to rise for 20 minutes, then spoon separately on pan. Bake in warm toaster or grill and cook. These rolls come out like Child's butter cakes and go over big with the men folks.—Mrs. Herbert K. Reynolds, 2 Orchard ter., Swampscott, Mass.

Household Hints

TO WHIP CREAM successfully, use a cold bowl, egg beater, cream and ice cold. Place cream in bowl and beat with a fork until it begins to thicken. Then add a drop of glycerine.

MILK IS USEFUL in keeping silverware in condition. If a part of old milk cannot be spared a cupful added to a pailful of water helps keep it fresh and shining.

MILK IS ALSO HELPFUL in making white enamel paint.—Richards Calvin, 976 Harrison ave., Boston, Mass.

TUNA FISH DELIGHT

Small can white tuna meat, drained, mix and put through the grinder, 2 stalks celery, 2 green sweet peppers, and a small onion. Put in bowl and mix well with mayonnaise. Season with pepper and salt and serve on crisp lettuce.—Mrs Alice M. Donahue, 193 Potters ave., Providence, R. I.

Answers to Requests

THIS IS the way I make starch that never sticks: Mix a little starch with cold water to make a very light paste, then add boiling water, stir and pour in a piece of white soap, stir again and remove the soap.—Mrs. A. La R., Gardner, Mass.

NUT CARAMEL PIE.

2 cup. sugar, scant

No woman's good looking who doesn't appear brave and strong of spirit, whose shoulders slump and whose curves in. It is a dreary moment when a woman looks into her mirror and notices that her narrow that her beauty petals are failing. She usually dashes to the shop of beauty repairs. Will Eastern Rail Combines Help Nation?

Will Rail Investments Be Benefited? What an Authority Says

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Jan 20—Half of the population of the United States live in the territory served by the Eastern railway systems. Two fifths of the business of the country is done by the four consolidated systems.

The test of the country as a whole should be the latest cause which is that the test will indicate what is best, to the benefit of the whole continent.

What are the prospects?

One thing is certain, the consolidation of railroads will not be completed for years. Many obstacles must be overcome before the consolidation plan is carried out.

B. C. Forbes

Indeed many of the railroad executives, and not unfriendly to consolidation, are opposed to the plan as now proposed.

Even though four railroad systems may be controlled by the same ownership and control in J. J. Hill's time, all knew New York interests would be benefited by the development of trade of the Northwest. To-day, similar consent is opposed the facility railroad executives are not concerned with wisdom of the proposed consolidations. His concern is with the public.

"My understanding is (and I am quite sure I am correct) that President Hoover merely kept insisting that the presidents of the four big companies get together on some plan. At no time did he go beyond that, but he did continue to insist on an agreement even after several meetings which broke up without any accord in sight.

"The section of the country west of the Hudson River and east of St Louis and Chicago, never before had four strong competitive railway systems. The Pennsylvania and New York Central systems, have strong systems everywhere. The B. & O. is a strong system in places, and the Baltimore & Ohio must cut a very big figure anywhere, except that the Chesapeake & Ohio was formerly in a coal carrier and the Erie important as a freight carrier between New York and Chicago."

* * *

"While theoretically it may have been possible to bring a fifth trunk line system based on the Wabash, Lehigh Valley, Wheeling and Lake Erie, it was doubtful, even during the boom time of 1929, whether such a system could have been constructed on the credit of any one or two of these corporations, but with Wabash common selling at 20, the 'streater Wabash,' obviously, is an impossibility, as the plan of the I. C. C. under which this fifth system was to absorb the Norfolk & Western and Seaboard Air Line was rather weird.

* * *

"In accordance with the law, the commission will have to hold hearings and give to any locality, trade organization or individual, an opportunity to voice objections. Heretofore the City of Philadelphia vigorously objected to the merger of the Reading with the B. & O. It has been assumed in many quarters that this opposition was engendered by the Pennsylvania Railroad interests. If that should be true, then this opposition presumably will be quite hereafter.

"The cities around Hampton Roads have already voiced their objections to the joint control of the Virginian by the C. & O and Norfolk & Western. Quite likely the commission will heed the objection and keep the Virginian as an independent line, although this road forms a natural and logical outlet for the New York Central system. The New York Central officials, however, have shown no desire to acquire it or to expand in another direction.

* * *

"The New York Central System is fairly complete; it reaches all points in the Middle West advantageously. The Central people have pretty well obtained all they wanted, and, guided in wise counsel, they have not paid high prices for anything. What they did acquire in the last few years have been mostly through exchange of their own stock for that of the allied companies.

"Most of the expanding has been done by the Van Sweringen interests who started in with a purchase of the original Nickel Plate Road between New York and Chicago, the Clover Leaf between Toledo and St. Louis, and the Lake Erie & Western, touching various points in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois—all of which they acquired on the bargain counter. The lines they have added since compliment each other quite thoroughly and, when finally cemented together, should make an extremely strong system.

* * *

Other phases of the far-reaching scheme, the opposition likely to be met, the probable length of the delay before final action, the effect upon railway stocks, etc., will be discussed in the second half of this penetrating analysis.

BOSTON BANKS IN LIST OF 100 U. S. LARGEST

By FRANK H. MELOON

Among the 100 largest banks in the United States are at least four Boston institutions. They stand well up in the list. J. Joseph O'Donnell Co. tells us it is one Boston brokerage house doing a cheerful view of the cotton situation. It contains a review of the situation by saying

"Looking ahead, it is only reasonable to assume that history will repeat itself and that "King Cotton" should be among the first to enjoy the fruits from the next era of prosperity. The turn for the better in the LAN business did not occur until after 15 months, 1907 after 13 months, and in 1921 after 18 months, and the present period of depression is now in its 7th month, but there are many other factors which indicate that the turn for better times is near. No matter how these events in the past compared with the present day conditions indicate that the cotton and textile prices and the cotton industry for the next five years is more likely to parallel the course following the year 1907 than any of the other years of depression above outlined."

President Chandler Bullock in the report of the directors to the stockholders said:

"Twelve claims paid during the year, amounting to $289,140, arose from suicides of policyholders, as to the records available at death —by the stock market collapse. Twelve per cent of the deaths during the year, or one out of every eight, were deaths from violence (including suicide). This is the largest percentage of violent deaths ever suffered by this company. Most companies have had a like experience.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

Yield of more than 10 per cent furnished by Firestone Tire & Rubber preferred obviously reflects nervousness over continuance of the $6 dividend

Official report for last fiscal year disclosed preferred dividend was not earned, but it is to be remembered that the company still is paying a common dividend, so that omission of the senior payment would await passing of the junior on the common. Then, too, company went to considerable expense in development of its own stores, which suffered substantial loss in their first year of operations.

In any event, the company is rich in current assets and could maintain the preferred dividend for some time to come, if the management foresaw a turn for the better in the industry.

Selling Traced to Resorts in South

A good deal of the recent selling originated in Southern resorts, where various of the leading speculators are vacationing, particularly the bears. This was understood to be especially true of the selling in General Electric

Gillette Manages to Achieve Rally

There has been a great deal of selling recently with absence of powerful new sponsorship. It is known that a very aggressive short interest has an option on 25,000 shares of Gillette, but he is reported, to favor delaying activity in the stock until a more favorable general market exists

An extensive short interest in the stock provides the principal basis for bullish sponsorship, and it was suggested today that the disappearance of the stock yesterday or today may have been a maneuver to entice additional short selling

Auburn Auto Again Leads on Upside

Auburn Auto, as usual, was a leader in today's rallying periods mounting quickly from 3 points to 4. The rise today followed announcement that consolidated net profit of Auburn Automobile Company and subsidiary, for the year ended Nov. 30, 1930, was $1,018,831, after profits and all charges for depreciation, interest, federal taxes and minority interest. This was equal to $13.23 a share earned on 307,353 no-par shares of stock outstanding at the end of the year

Company reported a net profit of $3,602,200 in the previous fiscal year, which was equal to $21.23 a share, earned on 169,684 shares in the preceding year

Electric's Decrease Due to Radio Transfer

General Electric moved back after an early drop to a new low. President Gerard Swope, in a speech before the Electrical Credit Men, orders at 23 per cent under 1929, the last three months of last year, were at 22 per cent, approximately the same period in the previous year. He attributed the decrease in part to the transfer of business to the Radio Corporation, jointly controlled by General Electric and Westinghouse

Jersey Standard's Statement Awaited

Some Wall Street interests are hoping for a diminution as to 1930 earnings of Standard Oil of New Jersey. Similar information came from officials of Texas Corp. last week. Standard's report usually is one of the last to appear. Talk has been heard that perhaps the net last year fell below $2 a share, but guesses always are difficult to make in connection with expansion which publish figures only annually.

Caterpillar Tractor's Estimated Earnings

Earnings of Caterpillar Tractor for 1930 have been estimated at in the neighborhood of $4.25 a share. At that figure the stock has been selling recently at about seven times anticipated earnings in yield approximately 10 per cent. Considerable importance is attached to the fact that the company is developing new machinery, which should add to earnings when production is in progress

Scale Orders for Atchison

Scale buying orders are said to be in the market for Atchison although not large. However, it is generally believed the demand coming from important interests in the railroad field, and represents investment of long-term character. Talk has been heard of anticipated improvement in food and vegetable shipments the first few months of this year. Atchison, as one of the leading rails, gives an attractive yield at current levels.

Tangibles Versus the Intangibles

Although most of the intangible values point to an early termination of the "bear market," no tangible evidences of a reversal in the business cycle have manifested themselves as yet. Business activity is still at a low ebb; earning statements continued to make unfavorable comparisons with a year ago; further downward dividend revisions loom as a strong possibility and commodity prices have thus far shown only moderate semblance of stability.

On the other hand, however, there are innumerable intangible indications that the depression is at the lowest ebb and that industry will be on the "mend" in a reasonable space of time. For example, credit sources are exceptionally large; brokers' loans are the lowest on record; liquidation has been appropriately 85 per cent completed; action of the bond market has been encouraging, and last, but not least, industrial leaders are attacking the problems confronting them in a more intelligent manner. Meantime, the pail of gloom hangs heavy over the market. Veterans on the street, however, find some cheer in the old proverb that "it's always darkest in the hour before dawn"

BEARS RETREAT IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

The lethargy of the market, however, still held the general price movement to a narrow area and advances were not well maintained.

COVERAGE ISSUES UP

Professional traders found little in the Washington report to interpret either bullishly or bearishly, although it had been awaited expectantly. Operations were largely confined to light issues and bears may have been a factor in a moderate rise in the last hour.

Gains of a point or two were numerous during the earlier trading, and a few issues made more than this, but the list eased off a little from the top during the afternoon session.

Extreme gains of 2 points or more were recorded by American Telephone, American Can, New York Central, Union Carbide, Air Reduction, Lambert, Wabash, Chicago & Northwestern, Continental Baking "A," Johns Manville, Consolidated Gas and Case, Allied Chemical sold up nearly 6.

Shares advancing a point or more included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Case, Commercial Solvents, Ohio, Woolworth, Grand Silver, Standard of N. J., Borden, North American, Coca Cola and Canada Dry.

Missouri Kansas fluctuated rather widely, in response to the announcement of no action on the dividend, followed by the declaration that it would be considered later.

PERIOD OF QUIET

The action of the share market was discouraging to traders of the big either side, and the speculative community seemed to be reconciling itself to a period of quiet, with low markets, such as have marked the bottom of many major bear markets in the past.

It was recalled that the list went through a period of extreme quietness lasting from June until October, after the decline of 1929-31, and a material movement appeared for about three months after as recent a break as that of 1929.

Movement continued to be cheapen, and the bond market continued to maintain a generous tone, with trading a little more active. Call money held at 1½ per cent officially, but time loans on commercial paper were cut another one-quarter of one per cent, bringing 60-day time loans down to 1¾ to 1½ per cent. The possibility of a further reduction in the New York rediscount rate, now at 2 per cent, was again widely discussed.

GOLD A FACTOR

Sterling exchange still held at a low rate, which may lead to a shipment of gold to New York with the raising of the rediscount rate tomorrow, although New York bankers are reluctant to let even any unnecessary embarrassment upon London.

Well if not was interested in the remarks in London of F. C. Goodenough in a recent address to the stockholders of Barclay's Bank, Ltd. He said he noted that any heavy demands for gold in the event of international debt would indeed much of the good that had been accomplished in improving world economic conditions during the past decade.

Cavanagh-Dobbs, Inc., Net Loss

Cavanagh-Dobbs, Inc., in its preliminary report for the year ended Oct. 31, 1930, shows consolidated net loss of $232,972 after depreciation and interest charges.

In addition to this loss there was a writedown on investments of $310,000, which was charged against surplus account.

In the year ended Oct. 31, 1929, net profit, after deducting all interest and federal taxes was $532,321. This was equal, after dividend requirements on the 6% preferred stock, to $1.18 a share on 235,925 shares of common.

Building Gain! Is Forecast by Sears

While building of one and two-family houses slumped 48 per cent in 1930 as compared with 1929, according to figures of F. W. Dodge & Co., Harvey L. Harris, general manager of home construction division of Sears, Roebuck & Co., sales he expects annual record. The division new month will show an increase of from 5 to 10 per cent in volume of business.

Orders in January Show an Increase

New orders for the Peller Division of the Urit Corporation of America, for the first 12 days of January, 1931, amounted to $166,030, an increase of approximately 83 per cent over the corresponding period in 1930, when orders amounted to $55,000. This increase represents a large number of new accounts secured from among the principal trade and bank manufacturers in the United States and Europe.

Business Machines Forms Subsidiary

International Business Machines Corp. has formed a new subsidiary to manufacture industrial weighing and counting scales with a range of users from jewelers to foundrymen. Production has been started at the Company's Endicott, N. Y., plant and will be separate from its computing scale factory in Dayton, Ohio.

Eastern Illinois Ry. Loadings Show Gain

Carloadings of Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway have shown a noticeable upturn in the past week compared with the like period in December and passenger traffic, especially at Florida points, is only slightly below a year ago, declared Charles T. O'Neal, president. He said further:

"At several important points in our territory industrial activity in a number of plants has been rising since the beginning of the year and there appears to be a feeling of conservative optimism among industrialists along our lines.

"I believe the road will experience a perceptible change for the better in its business by spring."

Economist Looks for Return of Unit Banks

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

New York, Jan. 20—The recent depression has placed in the crucible of testing experience the "new era" in banking, with vast groups of banks brought under the common ownership of a holding company.

It has disclosed certain weaknesses and one important chain in the South went by the wayside. But meantime, many more independent unit banks have succumbed. The net result is that the group system, like the bank unit, is not foolproof, and that, in the last analysis, any banking setup depends on the character and ability of the men responsible for management.

M. S. Rukeyser

In the first authoritative, up-to-date nationwide survey of recent bank concentration in the United States, Professor Joseph Stagg Lawrence, Princeton economist, concludes the economic advantage of concentration into vast groups are partly mythical, and he predicts something of a swing back to independent unit banks. He also suggests public ownership of bank-holding companies, and urges legislation to prevent the use of the holding company as a device for evading the double liability which inheres in the ownership of bank stock.

"On the whole it cannot be said that banking is suited to mass methods," Mr. Lawrence concluded, after a year's study.

In his new book, entitled "Bank Concentration in the United States," which embodies his mature views, Mr. Lawrence adds:

"The product (of banking) is essentially intimate and personal. The point of diminishing returns as revealed by English experience and suggested by American methods is reached at a rather early stage of growth. Our big banks are displaying the latter excessive size, coordinating departments, personnel departments, efficiency departments. Economies realized are soon offset by increased cost of 'co-ordination.'

"The scales are swung definitely in favor of the unit bank when we consider its position in the community and compare it with the corresponding position of the branch bank in Canada, England and California. The country loses something which large scale banking can never recapture."

Although reviewing recent tendencies toward the trustification of banking, Mr. Lawrence does not think that continuance of the movement is inevitable. Mr. Lawrence's study, published on the eve of the investigation into recent tendencies in banking by a Senate sub-committee headed by Carter Glass of Virginia, is especially timely.

"It appears that for the time being the forces of concentration are in the ascendant," Mr. Lawrence concedes. "Unless checked, our unit banks are destined to succumb in increasing numbers. However, as the nature of the problem becomes better understood and the current illusion of superficial glorification of branch banking is checked by experience, the tide may be definitely halted. Although the concentration movement is devoid of final sinister peril so readily envisioned by our legislators it is equally devoid of substantial economic justification. The ultimate of the movement is in no sense inevitable."

Mr. Lawrence ascribes the large number of bank suspensions in small communities largely to the overissue of bank charters. Recognizing the validity of this criticism, Joseph Broderick, Superintendent of Banking in New York, has radically tightened up on issuing new charters in the Empire State. Urging birth control for banks, Mr. Lawrence said:

"On behalf of necessary bank contraception it is suggested that the earlier limit of $50,000 capital for national banks be restored and that such capital become a condition of membership in the Federal Reserve system. In order to be certain that the community actually needs the bank and to relieve officials of the responsibility of making the decision it might be well to insist upon citizens' petitions before granting charters. No charter, for example, should be issued to a bank in a community of less than 3000 unless a petition avowing a need for it is signed by at least 100 citizens, the necessary number of names being graduated according to the size of the community."

NEWS OF THE PORT OF BOSTON

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Headed by the recorded opposition of Mayor Curley, steamship operators, longshoremen and other shipping interests went on record as against abolishing the Boston Port Authority for a docking commissioner at a lively hearing before the State Legislature committee on metropolitan affairs at the State House.

Representative William F. Prendergast, father of the bill, the only one who appeared in favor of it, stated that it was his opinion that the man could do the work now being done by the Boston port authority.

City of Boston Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman stated that he appeared for Mayor Curley, who wished to record his opposition to the bill.

"It is only at such opportunities that the mayor of Boston can come forward and bring before the public his appreciation for the excellent work done by the port authority in the interest of the city of Boston. The mayor of Boston wishes me to say for him that he appreciates the fine work done by members of the board who give their time and service free."

Silverman lauded each member and paid a special tribute to Richard Parkhurst, secretary, whom, he stated, puts in his entire time in the interest of the port without pay.

"The mayor of Boston wants to congratulate these men for their unselfish devotion to the task they are doing well. The mayor is glad to have this opportunity to pay tribute to their work.

"The Boston port authority is on its toes doing everything that it can possibly do further the port. Right now they are engaged in a port differential case in an effort to wrest from New York and Baltimore business that rightfully belongs in the Port of Boston. They are doing their full share to bring the port back to what it was.

"The Boston port authority is now generally considered as a governmental agency. It is so considered by the Interstate Commerce Commission. With the work this port authority has done, we are enjoying better conditions in the port. To pass this bill would be a step backward."

John M. Levins, district manager for the American Hawaiian Line, chairman of the steamship operators committee; Edward Hagerty, freight manager of the Cunard Line, and Joseph P. Smedley, president of Local 8, International Longshoremen's Association, recorded their opposition as opposed to the bill.

1,000,000 POUNDS

Beating out the snow storm that swept in from the sea, 30 vessels bringing 1,000,000 pounds of fish caused fishy prices to take a sudden and substantial drop when the receipts of the Monday market were recorded. Only animals that came into the Fish Pier with meager fares yesterday indicated that the market would be slow, but later vessels hung up a record for receipted poundage.

SILVER DEBUT

With her white shape coming up Boston harbor through the snow making a pleasing picture, the new M. S. Silvertask, new around the world freighter of the Silver Line, made her first visit to this port. She battled extremely rough weather in her passage across the Atlantic, it was reported. She carried a rich cargo for Boston importers. She came here from Manila, Cebu, Davoa, Sourabaya, Samarang, Batavia, Singapore, Port Sweetenham, Belawan, Penang, Suez and Port Said.

COLLISION DAMAGE

The Boston-bound S. S. Saleier, on her way to this port and New York from Batavia, was in a collision Friday at Oran, sustaining damage amidships, cable advices from London which reached Boston stated.

BOSTON PASSENGERS

Eight Boston passengers arrived here on the S. S. Excelsior, American Export Lines, coming from a dozen ports in the Near East and on the Mediterranean. She docks at Pier 44, Hoosac Docks. The passengers were Edward T. Wrack, agent to the American Export Lines at Alexandria; Charles A. Crippi of Dorchester, Dora Trenner, Dr. and Mrs. Claude Perry and Frank Bantos.

Boston and Taxes

City Heavily Assessed, Gets Little in Return

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald informs this newspaper that a compilation recently completed by him shows that the city of Boston has paid an average of sixty per cent of the taxes of the entire State the past twenty years.

The Metropolitan District Commission informs us that all the developments, improvements and undertakings of the splendid Metropolitan Area, which includes the city of Boston, have been paid for by the people of this district without aid from the other people of the State.

If not, let us make it so.

The people of Boston and of the Metropolitan District have financed their own developments, while contributing at least two-thirds of the revenue of the State which, in the matter of public improvements, is spent entirely in sections of the State other than this District.

Mr. Fitzgerald suggests, as one vivid illustration, that not a penny of the $11,000,000 gasoline tax collected annually for development of the highways is spent on the streets or highways of Boston. Yet the Boston autoists contribute heavily to it.

The Boston Real Estate Exchange complains of high taxes on the real estate of Boston, and it seeks to rescue real estate by doubling the gasoline tax of the car-users.

Perhaps it can prevail upon Governor Ely and the Legislature to allot a part of his $20,000,000 construction program, say $5,000,000, to the development of the Boston streets and highways.

Better to get a share of what rightfully belongs to you than to soak some other poor fellow on the head with the blackjack of higher taxes.

Give Them a Hearing

East Boston Citizens Should Be Heard

As a result of the disorders in Faneuil Hall, Chairman Thomas J. Hurley of the Board of Street Commissioners indicates that the citizens of East Boston may not be given a public hearing to voice their protest against the proposed erection of the massive gasoline tanks.

Peace and good order are commendable.

But righteous indignation, too, has been considered somewhat of a virtue since Christ drove the moneychangers out of the temple.

If tanks holding 91,500,000 gallons of inflammable oils were to be set up in his backyard, Mr. Hurley might lose some of his serenity or respect for the conventions.

Give them a hearing.

A Real Badge of Honor

A Suggestion to Our Legislators

The plates would bear the words "General Court," or "Senator" or "Solon" or something or other.

Presumably they believe they would receive a preferential treatment on the highways. The police might be expected to wink at their infraction of the road laws.

But there is a much better way to win prestige. That is by keeping their records clean; by being responsive to the will of the people who elect them.

Then we will give them a badge of real honor. It might be inscribed, "I have been faithful to the trust imposed in me." Let's watch this session of the Legislature closely and decide how many of them would be entitled to wear such a badge.

Lights in Dark Places

North Station Approaches Need Them

When Mr. Atwood, the Commissioner of Street Lighting, has an evening to himself he might take a stroll through Portland street and the other approaches to the North Station.

He will not exactly need a candle to find his way about, but he WILL be impressed that it is one of the dimly lighted sections of the city.

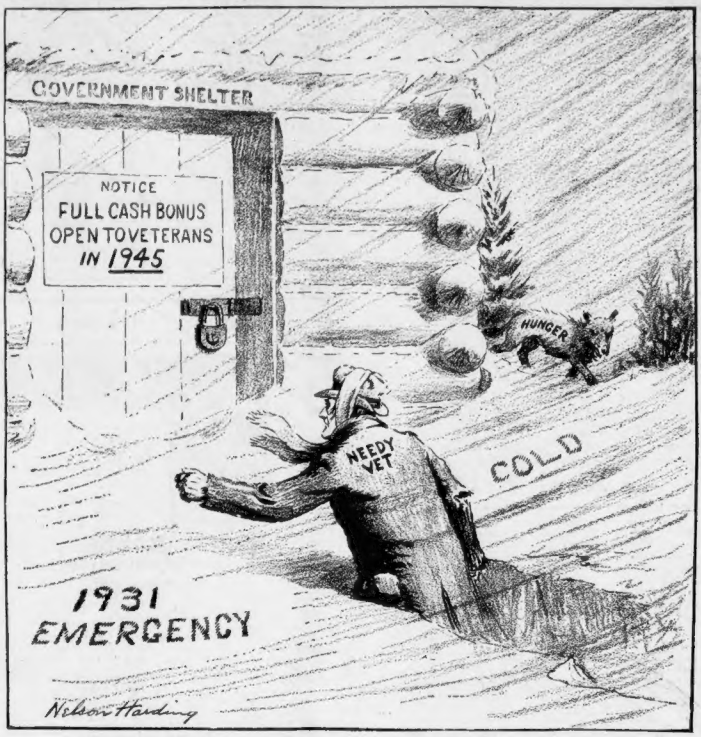
True, it is an industrial and commercial section, and the storekeepers and clerks have gone to their homes in other sections.

But, nevertheless, it is a main avenue from the heart of the city to the North Station, used by many thousands of people nightly. And we want the comings and goings of our commuters and other travelers attended by safety and the best facilities possible.

Street lighting will rarely satisfy the demands of everybody in the city. The officials are torn, no doubt, by conflicting requirements and they may be handicapped by inadequate funds. But let them take an evening walk through that section and we believe they will decide to give it immediate improvement.

OPEN IT NOW! -:- -:- -:-

By NELSON HARDING



In a time of stress and hardship
When the storm is cold and bitter,
When the wolf is boldly stalking
And emergency is present
There is very chilly comfort
For the man caught in a blizzard
In that position on his shelter.
"Open Now" should be its welcome.

Listen, World! -:- Lazy Mind

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Wondered Why He Didn't Succeed

He's sure he works just as hard as other fellows—harder than a lot of them. No one can say he's lazy. Most fellows crab about overtime—but he's willing to work an extra hour any day and be good-natured about it.

Elsie Robinson

He pays his debts, too. A lot of fellows like to skin out of obligations, but Dan doesn't. He is absolutely honest. You couldn't tempt him to lie. And he's clean and decent. Not a bad habit. Smokes a few cigarettes—but what of that? As for girls—he's gone with the same one for eight years. But they can't be married because he isn't able to get ahead. And, to save his life, he can't tell why.

The reason is simple enough, though Dan can't see it. His body isn't lazy, but his mind is.

Dan's body doesn't like to get up in the morning. It would like to stay in a warm bed. But Dan, because he detests laziness, won't let his body stay in bed. He makes it get up and get on the job. He should do the same thing with his mind, but he doesn't.

Dan's mind, also, hates to get up—likes to stay in a warm bed. It likes to stay cuddled soft and snug beneath old notions. It hates to face new ideas, new situations. It hates to be hurried or bothered. And Dan, who won't coddle his body, coddles his mind.

Dan is thinking the same thoughts that he thought when he was a boy, because it's easier to think old thoughts and hard to think new ones. And when he meets new thoughts, new situations, new problems, Dan's mind slides away from them. And Dan let's his mind slide awa, and crawl off in a corner and get comfortable, like a fat, lazy slug.

Dan doesn't need to let his mind slide away. He could control his mind just as he controls his body. He could kick his mind out of its warm bed and make it get out and hustle. But he doesn't know that. He thinks that minds can't be changed.

That's wrong, of course. Minds can be changed and trained exactly as bodies can be changed and trained. When Dan was a baby his legs went slowly, uncertainly. He crawled, toddled. But as he grew older he trained his legs to move quicker, faster, more certainly. It wasn't easy—learning to walk, learning to run. Sometimes he slipped and fell and bumped his head. Sometimes his head ached until he cried. But he kept on. Today his legs move as fast as any normal man's. But his mind doesn't move as fast as any normal man's. He has never trained it to move.

Dan isn't getting ahead. He never will get ahead, unless some great shock awakens his lazy mind. And that's the reason.

Is that, perhaps, the reason why you aren't getting ahead?

Your body isn't lazy, but how about your mind?

Your body moves fast—but how fast does your mind move?

How quickly will your mind meet a new situation—how willing is your mind to tackle a new idea? Your body is awake—but is your mind asleep?

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York's Mercantile Phenomena

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—The opening of a new five and ten cent store these days has taken on a musical show hoop-la. It brings out an entire neighborhood in a furore of excitement. Extra police often have to be called. And an ambulance stands by.

The doors open promptly at 9 a. m., but by 8, sidewalks in front are bulging with a jostling crowd of bargain hunters. Many unusual values are offered at a premiere and souvenirs are given away. There are clowns to amuse the children.

A huge orchestra renders popular selections, and in many instances the management secures the presence of a movie or stage star or a prize fight celebrity. The whole thing has the expert touch of a professional stage director. Many come in limousines.

Sales girls are beautified to a Tiffany polish. Floor-walkers are in cutaways and boutonniered. The opening I attended on upper Broadway featured a special sale in steppins. Lavender and pink things were selling like hot cakes at 10 cents a copy.

The perfume counter, too, had a big crush. The favored scent was put up in atomizers and sold for a dime. On opening day many articles are priced far below cost to bring in the crowds for a look-around. Once inside few resist a whack at picking up an armload of doo-dads.

Next to the growth of the red-fronted 5 and 10—there are four on 5th avenue now—the greatest mercantile phenomenon in New York is th. drugless drug store. One of the largest in Times Square does not sell a single patented medicine or fill a prescription. Yet it is always packed.

* * *

An amusing touch to the 5 and 10 opening was offered by an early morning drunk all dressed up and no place to go. After lurching around various counters he finally buttonholed a floor-walker and hiccuped:

"What have you in flowers better than a silty orchid?"

* * *

Goody! Goody! note from a gossip weekly:

"They often pick on a former country boy who is a metropolitan columnist for wearing spats but they never sock Will Rogers, the biggest Rube of all, for playing society polo."

* * *

Bruce Barton wanted to take a colored servant with him as a sort of handy man on a recent trip to Europe. A day before departure, the servant, a trifle embarrassed, sought out Barton and temporized:

"I sho' would like to go with you all but I'se pism frightened about crossing smack over that rough ocean. Isn't there some way I could just ease around the edges, kinda like?"

* * *

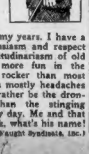
* * *

Fanny Ward is still to be seen where the pleasure seekers gather, especially at benefits. And this has been a winter of benefits. She confesses to being "past 60" yet remains one of the perky robins of life, winging from New York to Paris and back to Palm Beach. She has the form of a girl of 20, affects a youngish bob and skips about like a bubbling graduate. Her voice is a bit strident and her hands suggest mature years, but otherwise she upholds her theatrical billing of the "eternal flapper."

* * *

The most youthful looking man for his years, it seems to me, is Charles King, the actor. I do not know his precise age, but I applauded him in vaudeville when I was in short pants, and many think I'm ripe for the ether cone. He has the joyous vigor, clear complexion and jaunty swagger of the collegiate.



Yet somehow I'd as soon look my years. I have a wholesome enthusiasm and respect for even the valetudinarism of old age. There is more fun in the chimney corner rocker than most suspect. Youth is mostly headaches and regrets. I'd rather be the droning house-fly than the stinging young hornet any day. Me and that 156-year-old Turk, what's his name!

Against Prohibition

Three Educators Who Know How It Works

Dr. Hibben, President of Princeton University. Dr. Abbott, Head Master of the Lawrenceville School. Dr. Hopkins, President of Dartmouth College.

These three leading American educators deal with thousands of young men and boys. They KNOW how Prohibition works and what it does, and THEY ARE AGAINST IT.

No Prohibitionist, and certainly no intelligent citizen, can lightly ignore the fact that three such men as those above, the presidents of two universities and the head of one of the greatest preparatory schools in the United States, all oppose Prohibition as a public evil.

All three agree that Prohibition, promoting the illicit sale of whiskey, encouraging contempt for the Constitution and for law, is a calamity and a disaster.

The opinion of these important American educators is based on wide experience. They deal with thousands of young men and boys, and know what problems Prohibition has created, that were unknown before the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law were adopted.

They know what happens in colleges and schools, and in the neighborhood of colleges and schools. They also know, from the boys and young men whose confidence they have, what Prohibition has done to the home.

It would be interesting to know whether the Wickersham Committee, solemnly discussing Prohibition, has ever asked the opinion of these three men, or of any of them.

If you wanted to know about sheep you would ask sheep farmers, shepherds, not old ladies that never came within half a mile of a sheep.

If anybody wants to know what Prohibition has done in the United States, what demoralization and contempt for law it has created, what its effect is on young boys and men and the coming generation, such men as these three should be consulted and THEIR ADVICE SHOULD BE TAKEN.

Dr. Abbott, head master of Lawrenceville, whose school this year has been chosen, in a test at Harvard University, as the outstanding preparatory school of the United States for 1930, has written a book, "The Boy Today," that fathers and mothers are advised to read.

This book, published by the Fleming H. Revell Company, of New York City, describes forcefully the influences brought to bear upon the boys and young men, in this age of hypocrisy and contempt for law, this age of bootleg crime and cynicism, forced upon the nation by Prohibition.

Dr. Abbott writes: "A splendid boy once said to me: 'You know, while the fathers drink, the boys will drink.'"

Millions of fathers, unfortunately, set before their children an example of lawlessness.

And millions of children in the United States have learned to drink whiskey under Prohibition that never would have learned that vice without Prohibition.

All three of these men, needless to say, are total abstainers, strict observers of the law. They believe it unwise, harmful, but, as a matter of course, set the example of obedience to it.

Such men as they, and not the unreasoning fanatics, should be heard by those that make the laws for the United States.

Foreign Debts and Wages

Treadway Uncovers the Scheme

Congressman Treadway of Massachusetts has dug into the scheme of the international bankers and found the gentleman in their woodpile.

FIRST, they would take advantage of the business conditions to defeat the wages of the American workingmen.

SECONDLY, they would cancel or reduce the debts owed to the United States by foreign Nations.

Calvin Coolidge once said, "If America has any money to give away, it ought to give it to Americans, not to foreigners."

High wages sustain the American market, which consumes almost ninety per cent of all the products grown and manufactured in the United States.

Sound finances, if not patriotic self-interest, should not allow that domestic market to be broken down, either for the benefit of foreign people while our own suffer or for the benefit of international bankers, who receive fat fees for the favors they win for foreign governments at the expense of Uncle Sam.

Fifty per cent of the war debts owed to this country have already been canceled. There never was a Nation more generous in the history of the world. Our generosity seems to have won us contempt rather than gratitude.

Let us hope that Congressman Treadway's splendid speech will bring the bankers to their senses and the people as a whole to a realization of the danger.
